EIGHT IN PARIS-LONDON
PLANE CRASH; 1 HURTThree American Passengers on Big French Air Liner Wrecked in England.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 7.—Three American passengers on an airplane flying from Paris to London had a remarkable escape yesterday when the machine crashed in a field near the Lympne airdrome at Kent.Eight persons, including the pilot, were aboard. Baroness Van Till Caneh Kavanagh of the Hague, was cut in the face. The others were not injured.The Americans were: Miss Dorothy Palmer of Seattle; Miss Margaret Duncan, giving the address,
"care the American Express, Paris," and S. Ahlloff of New York.
The other passengers were two French women and two Englishmen. The machine was a giant twin-engine French liner.As all emerged from the wreckage their first thought was praise for pilot Roger Maury, who maneu-vered the big machine across the Channel safely to England, although one engine was disabled.
J. W. Wilesmith, an English passenger, said that when the machine was nearing the French coast the left wing dipped suddenly, whereupon the pilot turned, as if heading inland. But the machine seemed to right itself, and he struck out seaward again.Traveling slowly, with a list to the left, it reached the English coast. Then the left wing again dipped and the plane spiraled rapidly downward.There was a crash, said the Englishman, "and the machine bounced several times after the wing had struck the ground, and slithered sideways about 100 yards.
We passengers were jolted all over the place and the luggage tumbled about us."Praises Courage of Women.
"The women were wonderful.
They made no sound until the pilot brought his machine to a standstill. He climbed out of the cockpit and quietly opened the door for both engines were wrecked and we feared the machine might catch fire."Pilot Maury explained that a valve spring in one of the engines apparently had broken.The passengers entrained at Folkestone for London.Because of the fog, many pilots refused to risk the flight across the channel. A German plane, bound for Berlin, returned to Croydon two hours after starting in the thick weather.The Mechanic's

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 7.—
William H. Crane, celebrated comedian, died here today. He was 82 years old. He began his stage career at 17 and played for 53 seasons before he retired.Death came peacefully. Through-last night and early today a depressing weakness seemed to be slowly but painlessly sapping what vitality remained in the aged man.His wife, whom he married 58 years ago remained constantly at the bedside as it became apparent after daylight that the end was approaching.Not until a little after 8 o'clock this morning, however, did the actor expire. Those at his side were unaware that Crane had passed, so peaceful was the end.Crane Accumulated Fortune in 53 Seasons on Stage.William H. Crane's theatrical career carried him through 53 seasons to a pinnacle unsurpassed by any comedian in the last two generations. It was paralleled in success by his home life, which included more than half a century of wedded happiness, and was marked by a philosophy of "looking forward" which he indulged virtually until his death.When the actor answered his last curtain call and retired, he often remarked of Mrs. Crane, whom he married in 1870, "She's not my better half; she's my better seven-eighths."Seemingly imbued with physical and mental energy, Crane told his guests at his eightieth birthday anniversary celebration: "Now that my theatrical career is drawing to a close, I want to write my memoirs. Life is not worth living unless one is doing the thing one wants to do. I want to do just one more play and when I am accomplished that, writing will be my occupation for the rest of my days."Beginning his acting at a salary of "nothing a week," Crane was credited with having accumulated one of the largest fortunes ever made by an individual in the stage. "He was born at Leicester, Mass., April 20, 1845, the son of Amaziah and Mary Crane. He received most of his schooling in Boston, where his mimicking of pupils and teachers won him recognition as an impersonator, but played havoc with his department card."Crane played the leading role in "The Senator," "The American Minister," "The Governor of Kentucky," "His Wife's Father,"
"Father and the Boys," "David Harum" and numerous other comedies.Most of his time was spent in New York City during his active stage days, but in the closing years he established his "Fishing Box" at Cohasset, Mass., on the sea near Boston. He purchased a cottage and with a yearly addition or extension transformed it into a villa.
Life on the water was a passion with him and he spent much of his leisure on his yacht. The Cranes deserted the "Fishing Box" and New York for Hollywood when the Notion picture city began to assume importance.On Stage at 17.
Antics, including song and dance numbers, in the back room of a Boston music store where he was employed when he was 14 indirectly led to Crane's stage debut.
He lost his job when his fellow workers idled away the bulk of their time watching him perform.
When he was 17 Crane got his first stage "job." It was with the Holman Opera troupe, but there was no salary attached to it. His part was very small, but he learned every line spoken by the other members of the troupe. When one of the cast became ill, Crane volunteered to do his part. The manager was doubtful, but there was nothing else to be done, so Crane went on. His first real part was as the notary in "The Child of the Regiment" on July 13, 1863, in Utica, N. Y.Crane remained with the Holman outfit for seven years, during which he played Beppo in "Frau was shot by his neighbor, William

B. Cox, a tobacco worker, of 4101
McRee avenue.During the year the Paul family has lived next door to the Cox family, acquaintances said, there has been bickering over annoyances to the Coxes by Paul's dogs, the dachshund, Fritz, and a German police dog. Yesterday, the police dog made a hole under the fence between the two back yards and this morning Fritz crept through the hole.Mrs. Cox tied the dog to a tree.
Mrs. Paul sent for a policeman to retrieve Fritz, but one failed to arrive and in the meantime Paul returned home for lunch. He went after the pet and exchanged heated words with Mrs. Cox, which culminated, Cox asserted, by Paul scratching Mrs. Cox's face. Cox thereupon fired one shot with his automatic pistol, striking Paul in the breast and causing death almost immediately.A policeman, off duty and walking along Thurman avenue to his home in the vicinity, witnessed the shooting and ran into the house after Cox, who surrendered and confessed to him, the officer reported. Cox is 40 years old and Paul was 34.Another witness, Fred Jacob of 5121 Aubert avenue, who was driving in Thurman avenue, said he saw Cox on the back steps pointing his pistol at Paul, who was beside the dog at a tree about 10 feet away. Jacob said he heard Cox lowered the weapon.
Jacob declared, and Paul started to walk slowly toward Cox, who then fired.BABY DAUGHTER OF EMPEROR

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 7.—
The Government today dismissed the indictments in the Jack Daniel distillery conspiracy against eight defendants remaining to be tried, among them six St. Louisans—former Congressman Fred Essen, St. Louis County Republican boss; State Senator Michael Kinney, Edward J. O'Hare, an attorney; Robert F. Walker, advertising man, and John Connors and Tony Foley, St. Louis County councillors.This action, directed by Attorney-General Sargent, closes the case.Originally there were 29 defendants in the case, a conspiracy charge, growing out of the milking of 40,000 gallons of whiskey from the Jack Daniel Distillery warehouse in St. Louis under the direction of George Remus, wealthy Cincinnati bootlegger.16 St. Louisans Convicted.
Of this number, 16 St. Louisans were convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary or jail. Five St.
Louisans subsequently were granted new trials on appeal. These included Senator Kinney, O'Hare, Walker, Foley and Connors. The others went to the penitentiary or jail. Among those who served sentences at Leavenworth Penitentiary were: Nat Goldstein, former Circuit Clerk of St. Louis and Republican ward boss; Arnold J. Hel-mich, former collector of Internal Revenue, and one of his deputies, William J. Kinney, brother of Senator Kinney, and Michael J. Whal-len, former member of the Democratic City Committee.Eszen was ill at the time the case was tried, December, 1925, and obtained a continuance. By Government order a physician from the army post at Jefferson Barrens examined Eszen and verified a certificate of Eszen's doctor, showing he was unable to stand trial.Two other defendants—William Leving and George R. Landolf, wealthy Cincinnati distillers, who lent Remus money that was used in the deal, were also convicted but obtained a new trial. The indictments against them and also against Lem Motlow, of Lynchburg, Tenn., who sold Remus the whisky, were among those dismissed today.Motlow's Extradition Blocked.
Motlow resisted extradition from Tennessee in a long legal fight and for this reason could not be brought to trial.United States District Attorney Ward, who obtained the convictions, has been endeavoring for a year to find additional evidence with which to bring the remaining defendants to trial. Remus, who was a star witness for the Government, has been repeatedly interviewed by Ward in the hope of developing remaining cases.The status of Remus as a witness was taken into consideration in disposing of the case. He now is confined in the Ohio State Hospital for the Insane, where he was sent on a sanity hearing following his acquittal for the killing of his wife. It was the opinion of District Attorney Ward and others in the Government service that Remus would not now be effective as a witness.Mail Plane From Africa Landed.

of $59,000,000 Valuation Is ReachedTHE $59,119,861 valuation claimed by the Union Electric Light & Power Co. as of Dec. 31, last, as a base for its electric rates, is predicated upon a valuation made by the Public Service Commission nearly 13 years ago, which has been increased on the company's books by additions since that time without check by the commission.

The manner in which the valuation was reached follows:

Original valuation of Dec. 31, 1915.....	$28,000,000

Company officials assert this total contains no going value, financing or organization expense allowances. The return to the company, above all operating expenses, was 8.14 per cent on the $59,119,861 in 1927.BIG PROPERTY LOSS CAUSED BY EARTHQUAKE IN ITALYSeveral Persons Reported Killed by Falling Buildings—Heaviest Shock Since 1908 in Sicily.By the Associated Press.
ROME, March 7.—Earthquake shocks were felt at noon today in Sicily and along the southern coast of the Italian mainland.There was widespread damage to property. Reports from the communes of Pizzo and Radicea said that several persons had been killed by falling buildings.A panic was caused at Cosenza, where a shock of 40 seconds' duration occurred at 12:10 p. m.
Similar conditions prevailed at Catania, though the shock was of shorter duration there. Neitherof these latter points suffered any damage.Many Houses Badly Damaged in Messina, Sicily.By the Associated Press.
MESSINA, Sicily, March 7.—An earthquake, said by officers of the local university to be the most powerful since the disaster of 1908, was felt here today. The shock occurred at 11:56 a. m. and lasted for 10 seconds.People rushed from their houses in panic as buildings awayed and cracked. There were no casualties but many houses were so badly damaged that some of them may be destroyed.No Appraisal for 13 Years.
No appraisal or audit has been made by the Commission for 13 years. In that time the property valuation has been increased on the company's books from $28,000-000 to $59,814,861, and operating expenses have increased from $2-727,550 in 1915 to $12,055,199 in 1927, without being checked by the commission. The commission has made no revaluation since 1915 for the simple reason it is overburdened with work and cannot keep up with the growing public utility business of the State.The anomalous situation of an unregulated public utility monopoly is thus created since Union Electric has virtually no competition in St. Louis.Rates are based, under State law, on the valuation placed by the commission on the public utility's property. The utility is allowed to charge rates which will give it a net profit usually between 7 and 8 per cent on this valuation above all operating expenses. On that addition to property value placed by Union Electric on its books since 1915, are items ranging from $600-000 for miscellaneous equipment, to $13,000,000 for transmission and distribution systems, and including $6,000,000 for power plant equipment and $3,400,000 for buildings, fixtures and grounds. How an audit and appraisal by the commission might affect these charges made by the commission in the company's book valuations at the time of the last audit and appraisal. On that occasion the company's estimate of total value was $23,264,000, which the commission reduced to $24-000,000.Buys Power From Itself.
The company's operating expenses for 1927 were $12,055,199.
Two principal items under this head were $1,497,550, which the company paid for Keokuk dam power, and $4,428,953 paid to the Cahokia steam plant for power, both figures being determined through arrangements with itself.
The Union Electric Co. acquired the Keokuk dam by purchase of the company owning that property in December, 1925. The first unit of the Cahokia plant was placed in operation in October, 1928. The the several classes of consumers without an audit of the company's records and an appraisal of the company's property by the com-

by an examination of the items constituting the value of the property in the public service and the operating costs on the company's records, which were freely supplied to the Post-Dispatch by company officials.The examination was occasioned by the company's 1927 statement which showed a net profit of $5-

PRINCE JOACHIM, EX-KAISER'S COUSIN, ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

Tempest Stirred Up Over His Proposed Charity Concert; Society Fights Shy of Him.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 7.—Prince Joachim Albrecht, second cousin of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm II, arrived here yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic and with a deprecating wave of the hand dismissed the teapot tempest born of his scheduled charity concert at the Metropolitan Opera House next Tuesday.
He will conduct the New York Symphony Orchestra on that evening, with every penny going to charity—provided some worthy organization will accept the money. The International Dental Health Foundation for children, originally named as the beneficiary, upon things when its president, Dr. Louise Ball, announced publicly Saturday that Paul Sydnor, Prince Joachim's representative, had demanded a guarantee of expenses for the concert. Prince Joachim, when asked, made it clear on his arrival that he had no intention of dismissing Sydnor.

For the first time in years a real, live Prince of unquestioned title is loose in New York at a hotel, while the upper ranks of society peck discreetly at him from behind closed shutters.
The Prince expects to remain in this country about a month, visiting Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis, conducting charity concerts where requested.

Fine and 20 Days for Motorist.
Leo Schneider, who gave his address as the Northwestern Hotel, was fined $100 and sentenced to 20 days in the workhouse when convicted yesterday of driving when intoxicated. He appealed.

Nobody can tell just how much good clothes help a man in business, but no one would hire a salesman of slovenly appearance. From shave to shoe-shine the salesman must be well groomed, or he has a hard time crashing the gate to his prospect.

And what so good as a "GLEN ADDIE" suit to bridge the gap between the shave and the shoes? These Scotch wools, from the banks of the Tweed, are all-weather weight—wear them straight through from March to March and back again. 30 fine patterns to choose from. Fabric firm and shape-holding—made to measure—tailored with all the little touches that give distinction and, best of all, only $60 a suit. (Others from $50 to $70.)

On Way to Prison for Life

MRS. VELMA West, who pleaded guilty at Painesville, O., to murdering her husband with a hammer, leaving the jail for the reformatory, in which she was sentenced to pass the remainder of her life.

under conditions and for purposes we regard as intolerable.
Lewis said the trend of the law seems to be, if it has not already reached that conclusion, that the employer has a property right in the non-union status of his employees.
The union leader referred to operators requiring miners to sign an agreement that they would not join the United Mine Worker of America or any trade union. These agreements he termed "yellow dog contracts."
"The Federal courts hold that the employer thus acquires a property right in the non-union status of his workman that entitles him to an injunction against the union peacefully to persuade his employee to quit work and join the union," he said. "I here denounce the doctrine that the employer can covenant with his employees to rob him of the opportunity of hearing us preach the gospel of unionism to him, or to preclude us from appealing to him by fair argument and peaceable persuasion."
"In a consolidated suit, involving 316 coal companies in West Virginia, the Federal Court has decided that we cannot peacefully persuade the employees of these concerns to join the union and quit their unfair employment."
Proposed Remedies.
Lewis suggested three specific things looking to a correction of the conditions of which he complained:
That Congress correct the abuses that have sprung up in the issuing of injunctions by Federal Courts in labor disputes.
That Congress amend the Interstate Commerce act so as to prevent the railroads from practicing methods designed to exploit the bituminous industry, further depress wages and destroy the miners' union.
Substantial consolidations of the various coal units as a means of stabilizing the industry and reducing production costs.
"Government in and about these mines has been aggravated by these private corporations," Lewis said. "Armed and uniformed police exercise sovereign powers of the State while drawing their pay from the operators. Their character, violence and aggressions will be disclosed to you."

CHARGES RAILWAYS PLOTTED TO FORCE MINE WAGE CUT

The coal industry, superinduced by a railroad conspiracy to depress wages and coal prices, reached such powerful proportions in 1927 that its influence dominated the coal operators of the central competitive field and used them to refuse to renew their wage agreements with the United Mine Workers of America.
Dealers Depressing Prices.
Lewis said "the Attorney policy of battering down coal prices," had extended beyond the railroad, dominating until now "the small town purchasing agent, buying a car of coal every now and then, is patting himself on the back as he pits one coal company against the other to depress the price a few cents the less."

"Although the rate of bankruptcy for coal operators had reached alarming proportions in 1927," he continued, "the directors of the National Purchasing Agents' Association thought it a pity to let its full membership in the profits to be obtained from coal operators' purchase of coal and caused to be issued a bulletin telling the whys and reasons of coal buying. This bulletin tells the conspiracy against the assault against American miners and working conditions, leveling of coal mines to profit operation in unbridled lawlessness."

This bulletin, dated at New York on Dec. 18, 1926, and marked "confidential," declared the time ripe for all purchasing agents to insist upon the coal operators making immediate steps to lower wages and reduce the contract price accordingly.
Asserting that the Pittsburg Coal and the Pittsburg Terminal Coal corporation have made three wage cuts since they were de-unionized, Lewis declared his belief that the coal operators would show that wages "in these non-union camps are further inflated by the company stores."

He added that in some non-union camps where the miners' wage seems to be incorporated further reduction the work day has been increased from 8 to 10 hours.
Anti-Union Contracts.
Turning to the granting of injunctions against the union leader, Lewis said "the judicial process of injunction has been granted to repressing in our economic struggle

Ex-President of Union Arrested; Meeting Broken Up.
By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 7.—John Brophy, former president of District 2, United Mine Workers, and Patrick Toohy, editor of the "Coal Digger" were arrested yesterday by State police after a meeting of the men were addressing at Renton had been broken up. The men, who had been permitted by Sheriff Braun of Allegheny County on agreement by Toohy and Brophy that the Sheriff's proclamation limiting addresses at such gatherings to the miners' grievances would not be violated. When, in the opinion of officials, this promise was not adhered to by Toohy, the assembly was dispersed. Brophy and Toohy were held under $1000 bond

MAN DEMANDING $50,000 ARRESTED IN HUNT FOR GIRL

Clew to Missing Frances St. John Smith Sought From Suspect Taking Decoy Package From Postoffice.

By the Associated Press.
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 7.—With the arrest of a man who removed from a postoffice box a decoy package mailed in response to a ransom demand of $50,000, postal inspectors and police hoped today that they might be hearing a solution of the mystery of the disappearance of Miss Frances St. John Smith.

Michael Bunickas, 32-year-old textile mill employee of this city, postal inspectors said, confessed that he had rented the postal box, under an assumed name, three days before Miss Smith, a student at Smith College, dropped out of sight on Jan. 22.

After questioning Bunickas for hours, the inspectors went into conference with a state detective and Maj. Thomas J. Hammond, legal adviser to the wealthy St. John Smith, father of the girl, a retired New York broker.

Heavy ball was sought pending an investigation into the possibility that the man might hold the key to the disappearance of the 19-year-old freshman for whom a nationwide search has been conducted.

The Smith family, two weeks ago, received a letter which directed that $50,000 in bills, unregistered and uninsured, be mailed to postoffice box 515. Acting under directions, the family mailed a package which was stuffed with paper and bore a New York City cancellation. When the package arrived here a string was attached to it which ran from the box to an electric buzzer in the Postmaster's office.

Bunickas was arrested last night just after he opened the box. After long questioning he broke down, the inspectors declared, and admitted he had hired the box and written the letter.

"I must have been drunk," they quoted him as saying. He was unable to explain, however, how he had come to acquire the bill, three days before the girl disappeared. He has lived here for 16 years and has a wife and three children. For seven years he has had a regular postoffice box under his own name.

DONALD TEWKESBURY, SCION OF CHICAGO PIONEER, ENDS LIFE

Leaves Note, Asking Sister, Mrs. Clay Arthur Pierce, and Friends to Aid Young Son.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 7.—Donald Tewkesbury, 50 years old, scion of an old Chicago family, was found dead yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. Hotel, where he had registered as "James Jackson, Racine, Wis."

Tewkesbury, whose friends called him "a brilliant failure," was the son of William J. Tewkesbury, an early Chicago lawyer. Young Tewkesbury grew up with Augustus Peabody, wealthy broker, and Gilbert Porter, lawyer, both prominent. The names of both were mentioned in a note found in Tewkesbury's room, in which he said he intended to take his life.

The note, addressed to his wife, from whom he was estranged, urged that the future of their 8-year-old son, Donald, be protected. "With me out of the way," the note said, "Irene, Gilbert Porter or Augustus Peabody will do something for Donald. Tell them I want him to be a lawyer."

"Irene" was identified as his sister, Mrs. Clay Arthur Pierce of New York.

The act's end came with a song, "You Don't Like It, No Not Much." To which the audience replied in union, "We don't like it, no not much," and the curtain was rung down. ## CHARGES GANGSTERS COLLECTED FROM HIM

Bankrupt East St. Louis Grocer Declares St. Louis Gunmen Levied Tribute.

Ben Shatzman, wholesale grocer of 101 South Fourth street, East St. Louis, adjudged bankrupt by involuntary proceedings Feb. 18, lists his debts at $153,035 and his assets at $73,240, in a statement of finances filed yesterday in Federal Court at East St. Louis.

At the time his creditors took action against him, Shatzman told a Post-Dispatch reporter that his losses, in part, were the result of having to pay tribute to St. Louis gangsters who were preying upon East Side bootleggers. Shatzman said large quantities of corn sugar, "I quit dealing in sugar two months ago, so I don't see them any more," he said. He refused to say how much he had paid the gangsters.

Eight months ago Shatzman complained to an East St. Louis city official that three armed gangsters had visited his place of business and demanded $200, telling him they knew he was selling sugar to bootleggers and he would have to pay or they would seize his trucks.

He related that he negotiated with them and offered to lend them $200. They accepted his offer and one of the men signed the note for $200. "The gangster amount listed among Shatzman's debtors. He made other payments at irregular intervals, he said, but took no more notes.

On another occasion, Shatzman told authorities, armed gangsters followed a two-ton truckload of sugar from his warehouse to the consignee. They demanded $200 (tribute from the driver, who refused to pay. Then they seized the truck and forced the driver to haul the sugar to a deserted shack near Centerville Station in St. Clair County, where they made the driver unload it and sent him away.

Shatzman's unsecured debts are $103,664, of which $20,000 is owed to jobbers and producers and the rest to individuals and loan companies. Debts secured by chattel and real estate mortgages amount to $44,300. Loan companies also hold $14,489 in accommodation papers. ## ADVERTISMENT

Grandmother finds way to grow old gracefully

"I don't try to keep up the pace of the younger generation," says this 65-year-old woman. "I leave that to my grandchildren."
"But just because I lead a quiet life doesn't mean that I'm not perfectly well. I never felt better. Everything about me is normal and functions as it should. I make sure of that by taking Nujol regularly. Nujol keeps me in good condition."
When people become less active, Nujol becomes even more important for good health. For Nujol it not only prevents the excess of body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but aids in their removal.

All of us—old and young alike—lead more or less sedentary lives. But Nujol helps make up for this lack of exercise. It keeps the body functioning as Nature intended. Even if you think you're perfectly well, try Nujol. It was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Take it for three months and just see if you don't feel better. Nujol can't possibly upset you. It contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

CLASH IN LEAGUE OVER SHIPMENT OF ARMS TO HUNGARY

Budapest Representative Refers to Strained Relations of His Country and Her Neighbors.

RUMANIAN OBJECTS TO INCENDIARY TALK

At Suggestion of British Foreign Secretary, Committee of Three to Investigate Affair Is Named.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, March 7.—The mysterious St. Gotthard machine gun incident, involving the appearance of 2000 machine guns in Hungary in contravention of the peace treaty, came up in the council of the League of Nations today and caused a clash between the representatives of Hungary and Rumania.

When discussion of the incident ended, the council appointed a committee of three countries, Holland, Chile and Finland, to examine voluminous documents and make a report.

The passage at arms between Gen. Tanczos, representative of Hungary, and Foreign Minister Titulescu of Rumania followed a statement made by the Little Entente—Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—complaints in the investigation concerning the weapons.

Gen. Tanczos read a prepared statement in which he referred to the relations of Hungary and her neighbors as "not yet excellent" and said that the steps taken by these neighbors in the St. Gotthard incident were not calculated to improve relations.

Foreign Minister Titulescu protested that the Little Entente was acting in the interests of the league in the affair, and that the talk of the Hungarian representative was "pouring oil on flames."

To this Gen. Tanczos replied that his remarks were the outcome of mature reflection. This brought the report from the Rumanian Foreign Minister that this only made the matter more serious.

Committee of Inquiry. The proposal that a committee of investigation be appointed was made by Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, and this was accepted by both sides in the controversy.

Foreign Minister Bland of France asked Gen. Tanczos for the "birth certificate" of the arms consignment in order that their place of origin might be determined. The French representative also wanted to know why Hungary had smashed up the material and sold it at auction in the face of a prospective investigation.

Gen. Tanczos gave the committee five original way bills and said that destruction of the material was in accord with the Berne railway convention, adding that until the League Council had reached a decision, the Hungarian Government retained full liberty of action. Signor Scialoja of Italy suggested that the matter should be left to the special committee, which was then appointed, the membership being Beelaerts Van Blokland of Holland, Senor Villagas of Chile and M. Procopio of Finland.

Message to Hungary.

The main topic of discussion at a private sitting of the Council this morning was the telegram sent by President Cheng Loh of the League Council to Premier Bethlen of Hungary concerning the auction of the machine-gun material. Cheng is Chinese Minister to France. Cheng Loh explained that he had consulted other members of the Council and remarked that the telegram asking Hungary not to disperse the arms was not an injunction, but merely friendly advice. It was necessary, he said, to prevent the Council from being faced with a fait accompli and to safeguard the moral authority of the League. Sir Austen emphasized the difficulty in which Cheng Loh had been placed and Signor Scialoja of Italy said that the point needed examination. It was decided to examine this question again at a later sitting.

KITTY HAWK SITE FAVORED

Congressman Wants Wright to Send First Plane There. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 7.—As one solution of the controversy between Orville Wright and the Smithsonian Institution over the exhibition of the first Wright brothers airplane, Representative Warren (Dem.) of North Carolina has requested Wright to place the machine at the scene of the first flight at Kitty Hawk, N. C. Warren is co-author with Senator Bingham (Rep.) of Connecticut of a bill proposing a national memorial to the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk and he now proposes that the plane be placed in the memorial. He said the majority of the American people were "solidly behind" Wright in his controversy with the Smithsonian.

STUDENTS DAMAGE 'L' TRAIN AFTER BASKETBALL DEFEAT

Overpowered Chicago Crew and Intimidated 150 Passengers; Eight Arrested.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 7.—Passengers on a loop-bound elevated express put in an exciting 15 minutes last night, while high school students, disgruntled over the outcome of a basketball game, overpowered the train crew, intimidated 150 persons, tore out electric light bulbs, threw seat cushions out the windows and destroyed advertising signs. Eight students were arrested.

The cause of the disturbance was the defeat of the De La Salle Catholic high school of Joliet by St. Mel Catholic high school of Evanston, a suburb.

The last part of the train ride was made in darkness. Police met it at the first stop in the loop and while the rioters dashed madly for the doors when the train came to a halt, eight were captured. Complaints charging disorderly conduct were made. All were released on bail.

Triplets Born to Young Mother. By the Associated Press. LA PAZ, March 7.—A 17-year-old mother gave birth to girl triplets here, two of them being joined together. The parents have given all three one name—Mary.

INSIDE WORKINGS OF K. K. K. GIVEN BY EX-OFFICERS

Copy of "Official Mandate" Telling of the Coming of "a New Civic Messiah" From Hoosier Manger."

INDIANAPOLIS, March 7. — A "new civic messiah" will be born "in the manger of the hoosier ballot box," members of the Ku Klux Klan were informed in an "official mandate" in 1923, according to depositions taken by Attorney-General Arthur L. Gilliom yesterday in his effort to oust the Klan from Indiana.

Orion Norcross of Muncie, a former Klan officer, told Gilliom the "official mandate" signed by Milton S. Elrod, editor-in-chief, appeared in the Oct. 6, 1923 edition of the Fiery Cross, official Klan paper. Norcross was one of four persons who told Gilliom of alleged efforts of the Klan to gain political power in Indiana and elsewhere. The Attorney General said depositions of other Klan members would be taken later.

Text of "Official Mandate." "The national importance of the political influence of the Klan is being watched throughout the nation," it was related in the alleged "mandate," a copy of which was submitted to Gilliom. "That a new civic Messiah will be born in the manger of the Hoosier ballot box is recognized. This has been made possible and a successful carrying out of the Klan program throughout the Nation depends on two things: First upon the proper 100 per cent functioning of every organization in Indiana and by carrying out that influence, that message and that inspiration throughout Klandom through the Fiery Cross.

"Therefore the destinies of the world, the next President of the United States, the next Governor of Indiana, the next prosecuting attorney and judge in every county down to the constable in 'Podunk township' hinge on Indiana, the model Klan of America and the Fiery Cross.

Who the "Messiah" was, Norcross never learned, he said.

4 MORE WITNESSES SUBPENAED IN SENATE OIL BOND INQUIRY

Committee on Trail of Continental Firm's Profits Also to Hear James A. Patten.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 7.—Four additional witnesses, the name of one of whom was withheld, have been summoned by the Senate Teapot Dome Committee for the repelling tomorrow of the inquiry into what became of the profits of the ephemeral Continental Trading Co. of Canada.

The three whose names were made public are Miss F. L. Johnson, secretary to E. A. Eckhart, Chicago miller; Irl Hipaley, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, and Walter J. Mallatesta, who, the Senate investigators understand, was connected with the Republican National Committee during and after the 1920 presidential campaign.

Eckhart and his son, Percy, for whom subpoenas were issued Monday, were excused because Eckhart is in California and his son is on a cruise. The committee summoned Miss Johnson on the theory that she could furnish the information which members expected to obtain from the Eckharts.

These witnesses, as well as James A. Patten, Chicago, grain commission merchant, and William V. Hodges of Denver, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, are to be questioned as to the disposition of Liberty bonds which were turned over to the committee in 1923 by Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, to aid in extinguishing the deficit remaining after the 1920 campaign.

COUNTY FIRE CALLS TO CITY MUST BE PAID FOR, BROD SAYS

Suggests Advance Arrangement by Suburban Property Owners to Insure Response.

Property owners of St. Louis County, who may want the services of the St. Louis Fire Department in some emergency, should make arrangements in advance with some responsible association or agency of the county, to call the city equipment, Director of Public Safety Brod said last night in addressing a meeting of the Weston Chamber of Commerce.

Brod said this was necessary because the city must be able to hold some one responsible for the cost of sending apparatus into the county. The charge is $50 a company for making trips to points beyond the city limits. About $1000 for trips made by the city equipment to the county is still unpaid, although some of the service was rendered as far back as 1921, Brod pointed out.

PIPE SETS CLOTHING AFIRE

Henry O'Connell, 50, in Serious Condition From Burns. Fire which fell from his pipe as he was dozing yesterday afternoon in an alley in the rear of 4108 Corns avenue set fire to the clothes of Henry O'Connell, 50 years old, of 4004 Lucky street.

He is in a serious condition at city hospital, suffering from burns about the legs and body.

A. D. NORTON IN NEW OFFICE

Albert D. Norton, formerly Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, was elected a vice president and general counsel of the Continental Life Insurance Co. yesterday.

He succeeds Charles G. Revelle, who resigned to become general counsel of the International Life Insurance Co. Norton has been a member of the board of directors of the Continental Co. a number of years. He is a member of the law firm of Curlee, Norton and Tensdale.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and, furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

'HANK' WEEKE BACK IN POLITICAL POST

Eighteenth Ward Chooses Him as City Committeeman to Succeed Son-in-Law.

"Hank" Weeke, the Eighteenth Ward Republican leader, who was forced to take a seat on the sidelines almost ten years ago when his application for citizenship was denied because of bad moral character, is back in the political game.

Having obtained citizenship papers on a subsequent application, Weeke was selected last night by the Eighteenth Ward Republican organization to represent the ward on the City Committee. It is a foregone conclusion that at its next meeting, April 5, the committee will accept the ward organization's recommendation and "Hank" will have his old place again.

Weeke will succeed his son-in-law, E. E. Butler, Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, who has resigned from the committee, effective March 15. Judge Butler intends to run for re-election to the Court of Criminal Correction and gave that as his reason for leaving the committee.

Weeke, now 63 years old, has been a power in the Eighteenth Ward for many years. He was Inspector of Weights and Measures in the Kiel administration when some of his political enemies discovered that he was not a naturalized citizen. Of course, that made "Hank" lose his job and his vote, but he managed to hold his power in his own ward.

Made Citizen on Second Attempt. In an effort to remedy the defect which prevented him not only from holding office but from the right of ballot, Weeke applied for naturalization. When the case came up before the late Federal Judge Dyer in 1919, however, Naturalization Examiner Bevington introduced testimony to show that Weeke was of bad character and the Court refused to grant him citizenship.

Five years later, Weeke had another try at it. By that time Judge Dyer had died and Bevington had been transferred to another post. Judge Davis found that he had been a man of good character for five years preceding the naturalization day and he was sworn as a citizen of the United States.

In the meanwhile Butler had succeeded his father-in-law on the committee and the Eighteenth Ward was known as "Weeke's ward" just as the neighboring district, the Nineteenth, is known as "Nat Goldstein's ward." Weeke was restored to the voting lists in 1924 after Judge Davis had allowed him to take the oath of citizenship but his selection for the City Committee marks his first political office since then.

City Committee Meeting. At its regular meeting last night the Republican City Committee endorsed Dr. E. B. Clements and Mrs. Grace Semple Burlington for reelection to the National Committee. They are without opposition.

Final arrangements were made for the ward mass meetings on the next Tuesday evening to elect delegates to the State convention and to the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth district meetings.

For the Tenth district, which is divided between St. Louis and the county, some of the committeemen expressed themselves as favoring a delegate for both city and county. Former Congressman Newton was mentioned as the city delegate, and State Senator Ralph was discussed as the county delegate. Two women will be named as alternates.

ONE SENTENCE INTERVIEW
Afghan King Startles Correspondents of 27 Nations in Berlin.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, March 7.—The climax of the visit of Amanullah Khan of Afghanistan, came today when the elite of newspaper correspondents stationed here and representing 27 nations, were bidden to meet his majesty at Albrecht palace at noon "punctually." The invitation added: "Morning dress will be worn."

Noon arrived, but no King appeared. The newspapermen cooled their heels for half an hour and wondered what hitch had occurred in the arrangements. Suddenly Amanullah burst upon the expectant company. He said something rapidly which nobody understood. The interpreter as rapidly explained: "His majesty says he has had an excellent time in Germany and is leaving this afternoon. Good-by, gentlemen!" The hardened reporters found themselves out on the pavement of the Wilhelmstrasse, somewhat dazed by the lack of Oriental leisure in this royal procedure.

LUNCHEON PROGRAM TOMORROW

Luncheon programs in honor of the business men's clubs of the city will be given tomorrow at several social agencies and institutions. The Exchange Club will hold its luncheon meetings at the Y. W. C. A.; the Kiwanis Club, at Barnes Hospital; the South Side Lions Club, Missouri School for the Blind; the Round Table Club, Social Service Building; the Universal Club, Salvation Army Rescue Home; the North Side Optimist Club, Christian Orphans' Home; the Rotary Club, Neighborhood House; and the Maplewood Optimist Club at the Epworth School for Girls.

Members of the clubs will be taken on tours of inspection after luncheon.

GRAYBAR ELECTRIC CO.

The Graybar Electric Company is one of St. Louis' largest distributors of electrical supplies. Historically, it may be classed as an old resident or a new comer, for as the supply department of the Western Electric Company it has been a part of St. Louis for many years, but as Graybar, it has just gained its second birth.

The function of an electrical distributor in St. Louis is to bring poles from Louisiana; lamps from Cleveland; motors from Schenectady; wire from New Haven; conduit from Pittsburgh; and have them instantly and economically available for use in St. Louis.

Thus in bridging the gap of time and distance, Graybar performs an economic service and is as much a part of the business structure of St. Louis as the factory, the bank or the store.

U. S. INQUIRY INTO LOAN TO SHIP BOARD MEMBER

Court Order Issued for Tele-grams Concerning W. S. Hill Money Deal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—An order impounding telegrams that passed between Pacific Coast shipping interests and Joseph L. Bley concerning money said to have been furnished to W. S. Hill, former member of the Shipping Board, and also opposing the Government Shipping Board program, was signed today by Justice Sutherland in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The petition for the order was filed by Assistant District Attorney Joseph V. Connolly. The order divulged that the grand jury was making an investigation of the Shipping Board case.

The Shipping Board controversy grew out of the program for selling the West Coast lines, a program which the District Attorney's office says Pacific Coast shipping interests tried to block.

89 Telegrams on List.

The petition includes digests of 89 telegrams exchanged between Bley and persons outside Washington. Many of them were addressed to Lloyd Swayne, bearing Bley's signatures. The names of Commissioner Hill and Commissioner Teller also appear frequently throughout the list included in the petition.

Some of the telegrams have to do with exchange of money.

In August, 1927, Swayne, wiring Bley, referred to a loan saying he would follow Bley's suggestion that the amount be $10,000 and more later if necessary. A few days later Bley wired Swayne that $15,000 was required immediately.

The next day Swayne wired Bley saying Swayne & Hoyt had concluded to make the loan to Bley personally. The telegrams show that the West Coast interests sought to bring influence to bear on Commissioners Plumer and Benson as well as Hill and Teller, but there is nothing to show that the efforts were successful.

Sends Confidential Data.

In Oct., 1927, Bley telegraphed Lloyd Swayne advising him of proposals made to the Shipping Board by Stanley Dollar requesting that the data be kept confidential.

Later in October Bley sent Swayne an 8-page telegram outlining the method to be followed to defeat the administration program relative to disposal of the Shipping Board line. The telegrams cover various phases of the Shipping Board affairs, all of which apparently are being investigated by the grand jury, from the tenor of the petition.

In Aug., 1927, Bley wired Swayne at San Francisco discussing Shipping Board matters generally and closing with reference to a loan. As a personal and family friend, he said, he could see no reason why he could not make the loan and have it reported to Swayne, but said Swayne would have to guarantee him. There was no indication to show to whom Bley was to make the loan.

Hill Resigned From Board.

Commissioner Hill resigned from the board after disclosing that the Department of Justice had investigated circumstances surrounding a loan of $15,000 made to him by Bley. President Coolidge previously had failed to renominate him.

Watch Given to Frisco Employee.

LUDWIG TOLD A LIE, KEYSERLING ASSERTS

Count Again Charges Biographer With Lying Bismarck Family.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Count Hermann Keyserling, defender of Prussian democracy and mystic philosopher, after bandying words in California with a new antagonist, found time yesterday to send the New York World a telegram from Los Angeles adding a new chapter to the exchange of complaints that have passed between him and Emil Ludwig, the biographer, since both arrived in this country recently on lecture tours.

In his telegram, the Count again charges Ludwig with "libeling" the Bismarck family in his biography of the "Iron Chancellor" and attributes Ludwig's enmity to an unfavorable review of the Bismarck book which appeared in the former's Wegheuer Vollenendung.

Count Keyserling's telegram is a reply to one sent by the World informing him of Ludwig's denial in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin that he had made unjustified statements about Princess Bismarck (granddaughter of the former Chancellor and wife of the Count) and reasserting the Count's alleged anti-Semitic prejudices.

"I declined answering your first question concerning Emil Ludwig because I hate the idea of two German officers attacking each other in a foreign land. After you published my letter to Mrs. Hearst (refusing an invitation to a reception for Ludwig), I had to rectify, and after Ludwig's reply in Vossische Zeitung I regret to be compelled to affirm Emil Ludwig has told a conscious lie.

"The Bismarck family will answer herself charges against her if she deems it necessary. You can know exact truth about Ludwig libel by wiring Princess Bismarck, Friedrichsruhe bei Hamburg. Have no sympathy for bad type of any nation and any type inferior who lost his roots.

"Emil Ludwig naturally hates me because, reviewing his Bismarck book in my Wegheuer Vollenendung, I called it the autobiography of a Jew who had lost his roots under a misleading title. I proceeded that, owing to ample quotations, image 'Iron Chancellor' stands out unimpaired, but within these walls of granite the comments of Ludwig, proving absolute misunderstanding of a type beyond his comprehension, present most illuminating self-revelation. To that extent I strongly recommend the book—Count Hermann Keyserling."

SAMARITAN GETS BLACK EYE Says Stranger He Befriended Robbed and Beat Him.

With one eye closed and his face cut and bruised, Karl Hoffman, a nurse, of 1414 Market street, appeared at a police station yesterday and told this story: A week ago he gave a penniless man money to pay for supper and a night's lodging. He met the man on the street Sunday, spoke to him, and was thereupon beaten and robbed of $54.

Police arrested a man Hoffman identified, but the prisoner denied the charge.

DRYS WOULD HAVE CONGRESS PROVIDE UNDERCOVER FUND

Southern Convention Adopts Proposal for Direct Appropriation for Enforcement Work.

PENSION PLAN FOR AGENTS CONSIDERED

Committee Has Project to Care for Families of Men Killed in Line of Duty.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7.—The Southern States prohibition convention of the Anti-Saloon League went on record today in favor of a congressional appropriation to obtain evidence in prohibition law violations by undercover agents.

Acting on a motion of David Hepburn, superintendent of the Virginia State organization of the league, the convention in open forum expressed its sentiment in favor of the proposition by a unanimous vote of the approximately 100 persons, including delegates, in attendance.

A proposal advanced during discussions on the floor to request higher compensation for Federal enforcement officers and Government pensions for the families of those killed or injured in line of duty, was referred to the convention Resolutions Committee, which was meeting in executive session at the time, to draw the official pronouncements of the meeting on political and other problems of the drys.

Argument for Proposal.

In his argument for a definite appropriation for undercover work, Hepburn termed it the most important feature of prohibition enforcement, and declared it was unfair to compel undercover agents to borrow money for the purpose of procuring evidence in their operations, and added that it was through these operations that the Government was enabled to reach the "higher ups" of the liquor traffic.

On motion of G. W. Heck of Pennsylvania, the language of the Virginia motion was changed from "the purchase of evidence" to "the securing of evidence" and the original phraseology sounds "too much like purchasing votes."

Meanwhile, the convention had before it the word of prohibition Commissioner James M. Dorman that the dry laws can and will be enforced, and that it was "time the people realized that prohibition has become a permanent fact."

Delegates Hear Night Address on Law and Gov. Smith.

Addressing the gathering last night, he declared the eighteenth amendment had contributed to the moral and spiritual well-being of the nation by affording better living conditions and increased cultural advantages, which made of it a "good law."

At the same time, however, he urged complete co-operation on the part of states with Federal enforcement officials, without which, he declared, satisfactory results never would be obtained.

Prohibition Has Flying Start.

"Federal enforcement is just getting a good flying start. Next year we expect to show even more impressive results than the preceding one, else it will be time for some of us to get out," said Dorman in his speech.

"Any law that brings about better living conditions and contributes to the moral and spiritual well-being of the people is a good one, and prohibition has done that. It has gone through the acid test of political science—it was not slipped in overnight as some would have you believe."

Answering critics of the Prohibition Bureau's policy of denaturing alcohol for industrial purposes, the commissioner warned his hearers sharply that "it is not the duty of the Government to furnish pure bootleg liquor under the industrial alcohol act."

He added, "no law-abiding citizen ever was injured by industrial alcohol" and that the newspaper "scare" a year ago over reported deaths due to poisoned alcohol had been exploded as a myth.

"It was found in most cases and particularly those originating in New York that a majority of the deaths had been caused not from poisoned alcohol but too much good alcohol, or acute alcoholism," he said.

"Every denaturant added to industrial alcohol by the Government has a definite purpose. It is good business to use a particular denaturant that will become a part of the finished product or adaptable to the finished product. Under our system beverage alcohol has been put out of business and turned into useful channels. It is not a political matter. It is purely a business proposition."

Gov. Smith is the "foam the Democratic party will blow into nothingness when it gathers at Houston," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, declared in his address last night.

"Dry Southern Democrats like yourselves," he said, "must decide whether he was right or wrong when, at the Vanderbilt Hotel dinner in New York a few years ago, he declared the Democratic party is a saloon party and everybody knows it is and it ought to come out and say so."

Party Bolt by Wets.

"I cannot believe that one of the states you represent will give its delegation to the man who sent word to a wet Governor of New Jersey that he would help him put over a bill that will get us where we can put a foot on the rail again and blow off the foam. Smith is the foam that the Democratic party will blow into nothingness."

Declaring that, if there is any bolt at or after the Houston convention, it probably will be a bolt by the wets, McBride added:

"The victors don't have to bolt at the smuggling issue. It appears on the dry side and in favor of a dry candidate for the Presidency."

One term in the White House by any wet, McBride continued, would "set prohibition back a quarter of a century."

"Why do the liquorites want a wet in the White House? Because the President appoints the members of the Supreme Court who pass upon the constitutionality of all prohibition enforcement laws. He also chooses the Secretary of State who has to do with international problems which must be met in the smuggling issue. It appears the high prohibition enforcement officials and the Attorney-General, and the Federal Judges. He greatly influences Congress."

How Candidates Stand.

"To date the definitely expressed attitude of the leading candidates is as follows:

"On the Democratic side, Reed, Ritchie and Smith are wet; McAdoo, Donahay, Meredith, Young, George, Hull, Walsh, Wooten and a number of others are dry. On the Republican side, Butler is wet. Curtis, Watson and Willis have given ringing declarations for the dry cause."

"Hoover has answered Borah's questions only in part. He has not stated his attitude on the beer and wine program, nor the question of the State determining the alcoholic content. Dawes has not stated his position. Lowden has said he agrees with the message given by Coolidge, but has not yet stated his attitude on the direct issues."

McBride urged a "dry and active Congress for needed legislation."

Attacks Reed as Wet.

McBride termed Senator Reed the "most persistent foe of prohibition in the United States" and cited his record on prohibition issues in Congress as follows:

"Voted against submission of the Eighteenth Amendment and sought to exempt beer from its prohibitions; recorded as not voting on Webb-Kenyon act to prohibit liquor shipments into dry states in violation of state policy; voted against prohibition for District of Columbia; paired against passage of Volstead Act over President's veto; filibustered for weeks against supplemental prohibition act designed to prevent reopening of breweries for manufacture of medicinal beer; voted against treaty to suppress liquor smuggling and to break up rum run and was chief aid to wets in hearings before Sixty-ninth Congress."

FEWER CRIMES WITH POLICE ON 10-HOUR SHIFTS

Emergency Order for Extra Duty to Be Continued Indefinitely—Only Six Holdups Last Night.

With policemen on emergency 10-hour shifts, instead of the regular 8-hour work periods, a reduction in holdups was noted last night. The extra hours will continue indefinitely.

Three men in an automobile drove up to the filling station at Cates and Hodiarnont avenues, scene of frequent holdups, last night. Valentine Kleinow, the attendant, stepped out of his office to serve them. They pulled him into the car and drove away. In the 1200 block of Hodiarnont avenue, they stopped, took Kleinow into a yard, and robbed him of $15.11. Then they ran away, abandoning the automobile, which had been stolen previously from Frank Kuna, 514 North Spring avenue.

At the filling station at 3918 Page boulevard, an armed man obtained $35, locked the attendant and a customer in the washroom and fired a shot to intimidate them.

Other Holdups and Burglaries.

Other holdups reported: Drug store of Joseph Houlihan, 5458 Lilliam avenue, $125 taken; cleaning and dyeing shop of Oliver Bremser, 6211 Gravelle avenue, $22; Michael Kelly, 1517 North Fourteenth street, bread wagon driver, $25; Melvin Chrisman, 6235 Lorraine avenue, service car driver, robbed of automobile and $11.25. Burglars obtained $175 and $200 worth of merchandise at the Newstead-Leader Dry Goods Co., 4025 North Newstead avenue, and clothing valued at $150 at the home of John Spicer, 1554 Mississippi avenue.

Louis Berne, 12 years old, whose father is serving a prison term for robbery, was arrested yesterday afternoon at his home, 2229 Cass avenue, as the accomplice of his brother, Arthur Berne, 16, and two friends, Clyde Harding, 17, and Arthur Baumer, 23, in 11 Kroger store robberies.

Squeezes Through Bread Chutes.

Louis, who is small of stature, said it was his job to squeeze through the bread chute in the store doors and then unlock the doors from the inside to admit the others. Suspicion was attracted to the four when it was learned they were giving groceries to friends and selling cigarettes at cut prices and spending the proceeds freely.

Police investigating a $208 safe robbery at the United Cigar Store, Broadway and Market street, Feb. 26, yesterday arrested a Negro janitor at a nearby hotel and two white men. The Negro said he had received $51 by mail after the robbery for telling three white men how to enter the store through the hotel basement. One of the white men arrested has confessed, but the second man denies any part in the robbery. A third man is being sought.

PROSECUTOR DROPS CHARGES
MADE AGAINST MRS. KNAPP

Evidence Insufficient to Convict Former New York Secretary of State, He Says.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., March 7.—A recommendation for criminal prosecution of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former Secretary of State, and New York's first elected woman State official, has been rejected by Charles J. Herrick, District Attorney of Albany County.

On the ground that there was insufficient evidence to obtain a conviction on recommended charges of forgery, the making of false audits and certifications, illegal removal of State records, and grand larceny, Herrick, to whom the case was turned by Gov. Smith, Feb. 1, last night announced his decision not to press the case, after a conference of several hours with Attorney-General Ottinger. Previously they had conferred with Gov. Smith.

Herrick devoted the conclusion of his report to a bitter attack on Dr. Laidlaw, the originator of the charges, whom he said seized "upon the follies and mistakes of Mrs. Knapp and disregarding the Christian charity expected of a minister of the Gospel, placed the worst construction upon them, denounced her as a criminal, and distributed his charges so that they could be published broadcast."

MAN, IN JAIL 'FROM NOW ON,' GRANTED RIGHT OF APPEAL

Order Permits Release on Bond of Bernard S. Reiss, Bankrupt Shoe Dealer.

Bernard S. Reiss, bankrupt shoe dealer, who was sentenced to jail "from now on" at Warrenton, Mo., by Federal Judge Farris last June for contempt in failing to produce $27,345 for creditors of his company, was granted the right of appeal last by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday.

The order, which permits Reiss' release on a $5000 supersedeas bond, was made after his attorney, James E. Carroll, agreed to submit an appeal from the jail sentence to the Court of Appeals on or before May 21. It is expected that Reiss will appear before a United States Commissioner at Warrenton within the next few days and furnish bond. Reiss was sent to jail "from now on" when he declared he was unable to produce the $27,345 for creditors under an order of Referee in Bankruptcy Coles. He said he lost the money gambling and offered to settle with creditors, whom he owes $28,000, for $9500, which was declined. He was released from jail on a writ of habeas corpus last July and returned in December when the writ was dissolved. He has a wife and four small children.

CITY PROJECTS LIKELY TO EMPLOY 3000 MEN

Beginning of Improvements With Mild Weather Expected to Relieve Situation.

Although public improvement projects of the city this year, which soon will be in full swing as mild weather approaches, will not be in noticeably greater volume than for a number of seasons past, they will provide employment for several thousand men and indirectly work for several thousand others engaged in furnishing materials to contractors.

City officials believe this condition will tend to offset the general unemployment situation materially, so far as St. Louis is concerned. They do not hold out hope for work for men coming from other communities.

The bulk of the local projects are being financed in whole or in part by the bond issue, but much of the expense of street and sewer improvements must be borne by property owners in special tax districts. It is not practicable to increase the volume of bond projects this year, because the annual issuance of bonds is limited to keep the sinking fund tax rate reasonable, and because it would be difficult to administer more work at City Hall.

Work for 3000 to 4000.

Possibly 3000 to 4000 men will be employed directly by contractors for the city this season. Of this number, 2000 will be engaged in street and sewer work, provided the pending Olive street case is decided favorably and soon by the Supreme Court of Missouri. The case is a suit to test validity of recent charter amendments designed to facilitate improvements in special tax districts. Its pendency caused the delay in paving widened Olive street over the winter.

The street and sewer work season will last seven or eight months, starting shortly. Most of the materials will be purchased locally.

Other municipal projects, which will require from 50 to 200 or more workmen each this year, are: Downtown electric street lights, civil courthouse, the Arsenal street and other viaducts, the southern rail approach to the Municipal Bridge, the Missouri River waterworks, new Soudard market, new power house at city sanitarium, municipal service building, new police headquarters, Corcoran's Court and possibly the municipal auditorium. If condemnation proceedings progress rapidly enough to permit access to the site.

On some of these projects, such as the courthouse and waterworks, many men already are employed, but some additional workers will be required. The downtown lighting job is to be let next Tuesday and 20 street and alley jobs will be let April 6. It might be possible to start the new Negro city hospital this year, if the controversy over its location can be settled. Including this, the various municipal projects for 1928 constitute a $24,000,000 program.

A small section of the Memorial Plaza site, in front of the new courthouse, is to be cleared this month, and possibly other sections of the plaza during the season, but the wrecking task will demand comparatively few laborers.

Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte, President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service and other responsible city officials have expressed themselves as willing to facilitate as much work as possible to provide employment.

All Records Broken in Relief Given by Provident Association.

Unemployment is held chiefly responsible for a great increase this winter in relief expenditures of the St. Louis Provident Association, 2221 Locust street. Relief expense for the five months ending with March will approximate $75,000 or $80,000—the heaviest relief cost for one winter in the history of the Association, says the current Provident News, the staff publication. This is almost double the relief expenditures during the post-war winters of acute unemployment—1920-21 and 1921-22—and compares with $55,311 last winter. The money is spent mostly for food and clothing for families.

More than half of the relief cases handled by the association in December, January and February were classified as unemployment cases. Of the 1325 cases on record in which aid was given during February, 750 were the result of unemployment. Unemployment relief cost during February was $2920 out of a total relief expenditure of $17,500.

The cabinet of the association has asked the directors to consider the need for money to handle the situation. Staff workers will confer tomorrow and Friday on the problem.

From Here Organization Will Go to New York for the National Contest.

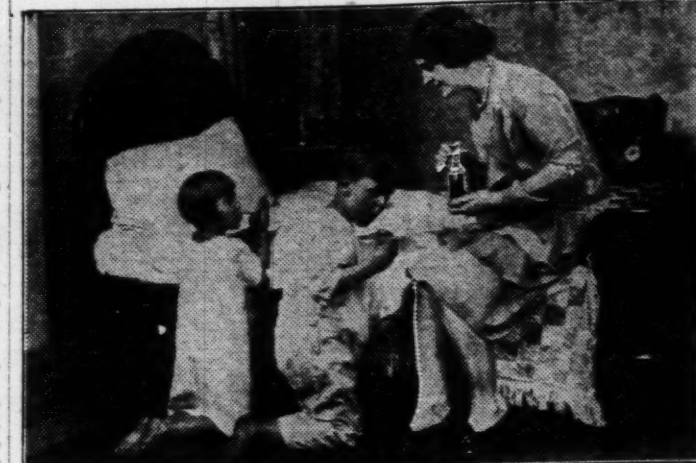

The University of Missouri Glee Club, for three consecutive years winner of the Missouri Valley Conference championship, will be heard in its annual St. Louis concert at the Odeon tonight. The concert is under the auspices of the St. Louis Alumni Association of the university.

From here the club will go to New York to participate in the national glee club contest, in which 20 or more of colleges and universities will compete at Carnegie Hall, Saturday night. Proceeds from the St. Louis concert will be used to defray expenses of the trip.

The club is under the direction of Herbert Wall. Thirty members will make the trip, which also will include concerts at Chicago and Washington. This year, for the first time, a young woman will appear with the club as soloist. She is Miss Marian Avery of St. Louis, a student in the Missouri School of Fine Arts.

Stop Children's Night Coughs

with a dose of mild Am-o-loz Cough Syrup

Mother, instead of giving children medicines prepared for grown-ups, use the same good judgment that you use in feeding your little ones.

Adult medicines, even in small doses, are often too strong for little bodies and are as unfitted for them as rich foods.

When any of your children has a cough or cold, give Am-o-loz—the safe, pure, mild cough syrup made especially for children. It is best for children up to 15 years because it contains no narcotics or injurious drugs, nothing to harm even babies. All children love it.

Given in time, Am-o-loz quickly relieves the cough and soothes the tickling irritated throat. It's a great comfort because it quickly eliminates the tightness, allows easy breathing and helps prevent the serious illness which otherwise might follow.

Wise, careful mothers have used Am-o-loz for over 20 years. Thousands of them can tell of truly wonderful results obtained from it. Druggists the country over know its purity and merit and sell it with money-back guarantee.

Try it. Keep a 50c bottle in your home and give it to your child at the first sign or symptom of a cold. You'll marvel at the benefits that follow, and results will prove to you it pays to give children only children's medicine. Lauber & Lauber Co., Chicago.

When children need a laxative, the best and most economical one we know is Triena. In addition to its other mild correctives, it contains fresh prune juice.

4 OFFICERS RELEASED FROM BEATING CHARGE

Six Defendants Left in $100,000 Suit of Blacksmith Who Charges Abuse.

Four of the 10 defendants were discharged at the end of testimony this afternoon in trial at Clayton of the $100,000 damage suit of George Lenhardt, a blacksmith of Oakville, St. Louis County, against Constable George J. Roth of Central Township, seven of his deputies and former deputies and two private detectives. He alleged they subjected him to a third-degree inquisition and beat and tortured him Aug. 20, 1925, in an effort to make him confess the murder of his estranged wife.

Circuit Judge Mulloy sustained demurrers to the sufficiency of the evidence in behalf of Deputy Constable Lawrence L. Sheller and former Deputy Constables Warren Ketchum, Harvey Litzsinger, now a Deputy Sheriff, and Joseph Baum. This left as defendants besides Roth, former Deputy Constable Frank Robinson, now a Deputy Sheriff; Deputy Constable Sam Scissors and George Marin and two Hargrave Detective Agency operatives, Max Lander and R. B. McNeely.

In plaintiff's rebuttal testimony, after defendants had entered categorical denials to the charges and the defense had presented an alibi for Roth, John A. Nolan, counsel for Lenhardt, quoted Robinson as saying two weeks ago: "I'll say this for Lenhardt, he can absorb more punishment than any man I ever saw."

Lenhardt's lawyers closed his case yesterday by introducing a report of the St. Louis City Hospital on his condition when he was taken there Aug. 21 after his all-night grilling in Constable Roth's office in the Clayton Courthouse. In course of the questioning, he testified, as told yesterday, that he was beaten with fists, rubber hose and clubs, strung up by his wrists, terrified by a hangman's rope and his hair was pulled out by the roots.

Report Tells of Injuries.
The hospital report, signed by Dr. S. A. Carroll, stated there were "multiple traumas (injuries caused by violence or external forces) over the entire body. An accompanying chart showed the bruises were thickest about the face, the thighs and knees. The report added Lenhardt was hardly able to talk for the facial injuries. Lenhardt set forth that he was arrested Aug. 20 after operatives of the Hargrave Detective Agency, employed by relatives of his wife, had fastened their suspicions on him. His wife, Mrs. Sadie Lenhardt, was found shot to death Aug. 1, 1925 in a ravine a quarter of a mile from Lenhardt's home in Oakville. After a preliminary hearing, Lenhardt was discharged on ground of insufficient evidence and because he presented a perfect alibi.

Saw Constable at Roadhouse.
Two witnesses testified this morning that Constable Roth spent the night of Aug. 20 at "Belvedere" Joe Gonnella's roadhouse on the Olive Street road and therefore could not have participated in the questioning, as Lenhardt alleged. L. Nichols of 309 Belt avenue, a painter and decorator, said he saw Roth at the roadhouse from 8 p. m. until 2 p. m., when Nichols left.

Miss Julia Goss, a singer at the roadhouse, who declared she had taken "interest" in Roth, testified she saw Roth there until about 4 a. m. and spent some time at his table. It was her "first carnival night" at the place and therefore she remembered the occasion clearly, she explained.

FIRE CHIEF FINED $500; GETS 90 DAYS FOR BOOTLEGGING
Head of Department at Breese, Ill., Among Seven Sentenced in East St. Louis.

Ben H. Feldman, chief of the Fire Department of Breese, Ill., and three men associated with him in operation of a saloon here were fined and sentenced to jail by Federal Judge Wham at East St. Louis yesterday. Execution of Feldman's sentence was stayed until March 13 to enable him to attend a convention of Southern Illinois fire department heads, to be held at Breese next week.

Feldman was given 90 days in jail and fined $500, as was George Jaske, his partner in the enterprise. Two bartenders—Theodore Van Alst and Fred Zinschlag—were each fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days. The saloon was raided last October when prohibition agents made 21 arrests in Breese. Charles Erwin of Womac, Ill., and Henry Hood, living near Belleville, both saloon keepers, were each sentenced to five months in jail and fined $200 each when they pleaded guilty of violating the liquor laws. Martin Pruesner, a saloon keeper of Breese, who also pleaded guilty, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100.

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels," but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons:

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grows less and less. Its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy cascara that every druggist always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

OPPOSES REPEAL OF LILLIAN AV. WIDENING

City Plan Commission to Request Mayor Miller to Veto Measure.

A formal request to veto the ordinance repealing the Lillian avenue widening project is to be made of Mayor Miller by the City Plan Commission, as the result of discussion by the commission last night. The Mayor said today he would determine whether to approve or veto the bill after conferring with commission representatives, but that generally he disliked to use the veto.

The Board of Aldermen passed the repeal measure recently, in response to protests of property owners in the proposed benefit district who said they could not afford to pay their share. The widening, from 60 to 80 feet between Kingshighway Northwest and the city limits, was designed as part of the commission's major street system and is regarded by that body as an essential project for traffic relief.

Cost of the improvement has been estimated at $175,000, or an assessment of $4 to $5 per front foot on benefited property. The city already has spent $10,000 on the condemnation proceedings. Two ordinances also were passed recently for paving the widened street, deriving 10 per cent of the cost from the bond fund for major streets and the rest from abutting property. The Plan Commission points out that if the thoroughfare is not widened it will not be proper to spend any bond money on the surfacing.

The commission authorized a study for a proposed street following the route of the Rives des Peres sewer enclosure for about half a mile, from Delmar boulevard and the Wabash Railway to the city limits near Olive Street road. When the river is converted into a sewer, a 60-foot right-of-way will be available and surrounding idle land doubtless will be developed.

In answer to a query from the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee, the commission declared cost of acquiring the southern end of the double block between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, fronting on Clark avenue, to enlarge the site for the Municipal Auditorium, would be prohibitive, likely amounting to $400,000 or more.

The commission's recent report on river-front development is to be printed in 5000 copies for $3700 and 4000 are to be sold at $1.50 each, the money going to the city treasury, while the balance will be given free to officials and others interested.

GARRETT ASSAILS G. O. P. LEADERSHIP IN RADIO DEBATE

Democratic Chieftain in House Says Republicans Are Playing Presidential Politics on Farm Relief.

ASSERTS CONGRESS IS DOING NOTHING

Tilson, Party and Platform Opponent, Declares Democrats Have No Issue for National Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—After many an argument on the House floor, the two party leaders, John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, and J. P. Garrett, of Tennessee, took to the radio last night to air their differences on political questions.

Tilson, the Republican field marshal, predicted the Democrats, at a loss for an issue in the coming presidential campaign, would revive the tariff question, and "as usual the Republicans will win because they deserve to win."

Garrett, who is in charge of Democratic maneuvers in the House, came back with the assertion that Congress was accomplishing next to nothing, and the Republican majority was to blame.

The two party leaders shared a half-hour program sent on to the air through 22 radio stations by the National Broadcasting Co. It was one of the forthrightly debates arranged by the National League of Women Voters.

Devoting himself mainly to the campaign, Tilson touched on both the prohibition question and the possibility of Gov. Smith of New York becoming the Democratic standard bearer. Garrett centered his fire on the Republican leadership in Congress and wound up with the observation that the "present outlook is that this session is to pass into history as well as a blank page."

Tilson reviewed the accomplishments of the Republican party in the last seven years, emphasizing the reduction of the public debt, institution of the budget system and revision of the tariff. Veering to the coming campaign, he said there was no issue "about which the public generally feels more deeply or talks more vehemently than prohibition." Declaring there is a sharp division on this subject in both parties, he added: "It is almost a certainty that neither party will make adherence or opposition to the cause of prohibition the test of party loyalty, or that either party will disregard other issues and, by accepting support only upon this ground, alienate all those former members of the party who do not agree on this program."

Discussing Religious Question. Then Tilson turned to the religious question, with this observation: "It is contended by many that if Gov. Smith is nominated at Houston a religious issue will enter into the campaign, which is of course the most difficult and disturbing of all issues to deal with. Doubtless there are bigots among both Catholics and Protestants whose political judgment might be warped by the fact that a candidate professes one religion rather than another, but it is hard to believe that with all our professions of religious liberty and tolerance the American people will permit such an issue to be controlling on either side."

In the end, Tilson predicted, the Democrats will fall back on their advocacy "of destroying the protective tariff and lowering duties to a tariff-for-revenue-only basis."

"The American people," he added, "are not ready to turn their backs upon the principle of protection to American industry and labor, nor are they ready, in the light of recent past experience to again entrust the reins of government to Democratic control."

Says G. O. P. Is Playing Politics. Garrett, in closing up the present session of Congress, said that the main problems confronting it have been tax reduction, farm relief, flood control and disposition of Muscle Shoals.

"We have been in session now three months," he said, "and it cannot be said that any proposal has to any one of these matters has reached a stage which encourages the slightest hope of final enactment."

The Democratic floor leader declared it was apparent that the tax bill had been "shelved" and predicted the House Agriculture Committee would report a bill that even if passed would receive a veto.

"That Republican presidential politics has entered as a chief factor into the consideration of this question," Garrett went on, "is so manifest as to admit of no doubt."

Tilson, Party and Platform Opponent, Declares Democrats Have No Issue for National Campaign.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—After many an argument on the House floor, the two party leaders, John Q. Tilson of Connecticut and Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee, took to the radio last night to air their differences on political questions.

Pictures Sent by Radio
To Liner in Mid-Atlantic

Spectators Aboard Berengaria See Persons as They Appear Before Television in London Studio—One Recognizes Fiancee.

By the Associated Press.

S. S. BERENGARIA, March 7.—Ship has been linked to shore for the first time by television.

Spectators aboard the Cunard liner Berengaria in mid-Atlantic last night saw persons appear before the transmitting apparatus in a London studio. They saw the subjects move and in one case the image that came across the Atlantic was recognized as the fiancee of the ship's captain.

The test lasted for two hours and at times the vision from London was stated to be remarkably clear.

The receiving apparatus of the television aboard the Berengaria was in charge of Capt. O. G. Hutchinson, managing director of the Baird Television Development Co., London. The persons whose images were sent by television appeared before the transmitting apparatus in the London studio of the Baird Company. The television used was only slightly different from that used on Feb. 8 when in a darkened village in Hartdale, N. Y., spectators saw a man and woman in the London studio.

Operator Recognizes Fiancee. On the screen of the receiving apparatus aboard the ship appeared the image of Mrs. Dora Selvey, fiancée of Chief Radio Operator Stanley Brown of the Berengaria who was present at the tests. Brown recognized Miss Selvey when she first appeared on the screen by the characteristic way she has of arranging her hair. Recognition was established before a doubt when spectators saw her turn so as to display her profile.

Brown, at whose request Miss Selvey was invited to appear before the transmitting apparatus, said it was the most thrilling experience he had encountered. Didn't interfere with ship's Radio. The television tests did not interfere with operation of the ship's radio which continued as usual during the period.

Capt. Hutchinson said the demonstration was rather a rushed affair as it was only decided upon 24 hours before the ship sailed from New York, March 2.

"Since Sunday night we have been installing aials and tuning in generally," he explained. "The fact that we were ready in time for the mid-ocean test is due to the assistance given us by the ship's officers. This is the first time television has been attempted in mid-ocean and the prospects this opens up can well be imagined."

ing people, who remember the President's veto of the so-called McNary-Haugen bill at the last Congress and the fundamental economic and constitutional grounds upon which he based it, will readily understand that any bill containing the equalization fee principle must meet with similar action at his hands. There has been no word from any source even an intimation that his convictions upon the subject have undergone any change. No one believes that there is a remote chance of passing the measure over a veto, and to some of us at least, it seems worse than childish to trifle with this most serious question as it now appears to be the purpose to do.

Differences between the executive and legislative branches over the question of local participation in future flood control work have placed that legislation in a precarious situation, and Muskie Shocks Legislators. The bill, which is almost a certainty that neither party will make adherence or opposition to the cause of prohibition the test of party loyalty, or that either party will designate its platform by accepting support only upon this ground, alienate all those former members of the party who do not agree on this program.

Discusses Religious Question. Then Tilson turned to the religious question, with this observation: "It is contended by many that if the Smiths are nominated at Houston a religious issue will enter into the campaign, which is of course the most difficult and disturbing of all issues to deal with. Doubtless there are bigots among both Catholics and Protestants whose political judgment might be warped by the fact that a candidate professes one religion rather than another, but it is hard to believe that with all our professions of religious liberty and tolerance the American people will permit such an issue to be controlling on either side."

DEBATE ON 'LAME
DUCK' AMENDMENT
BEGINS IN HOUSE

Republican Leaders Offer Many Alterations, Apparently to Prevent Adoption of the Resolution.

COCHRAN OPPOSES PROPOSED CHANGES

St. Louis Points Out Abolition of Filibuster Would Take From Dawes Only Issue.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—New efforts to torpedo the Norris resolution, which provides for the submission of a constitutional amendment abolishing the "lame duck" session of Congress, marked the debate on the measure in the House yesterday. A vote is not expected before Thursday.

After preventing the resolution from coming to a vote in the House for six years, the old guard leaders apparently have now concocted a scheme to prevent its adoption by leading it down with objectionable amendments. It is a time-worn parliamentary trick, but it still works.

First the "big three" of the House—Speaker Longworth, Republican Charles McNary and Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee—compelled the House Elections Committee to insert in the proposed amendment a fixed date for the adjournment of the second session of Congress. McNary and Snell, who are in progress here in connection with the death seven months ago of King Sisowath.

A jewel-studded golden urn containing the double-edged body of the King, who died Aug. 9, 1927, was carried Friday in a great funeral procession from a chapel where it had been since his death. After making an imposing circuit of the city, it was given into the custody of the late ruler's son, King Monivong, until next Friday, when it will be burned on a funeral pyre.

The body was placed in the urn immersed in mercury and aromatics last August, immediately after the earthly farewell of the son who shouted in the dead King's ear: "May Buddha receive you."

Friday's procession was the beginning of eight days' religious observance. The urn was placed atop a pyramid-like funeral car. Around it marched descendants of the King, while before it walked hundreds of standard-bearers, a score of richly caparisoned elephants, dozens of native porters, French and native troops and all officials and members of the royal family, with a multitude of priests and mourners.

U. S. REFUSES TO ACCEPT $5,000,000 IN SOVIET GOLD Treasury Rules Bullion Cannot Be Taken for Essay, Under Terms of Embargo.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 7.—Five million dollars in gold, which the Soviet Government shipped to New York, Feb. 21, to help promote trade, was outlawed by the Treasury today. On the advice of the Department of Justice, the Treasury held that the gold bars could not be accepted for assaying without violating the embargo against Russian gold imports placed in effect in 1921, or unless the two banks guaranteed title to the New York bars and offered to return them to the mint for purchase merely as agents of the Soviet Bank of Moscow and not as owners.

While officials here are uninformally at the disposal of the metal, now held in the vaults of the Chase National Bank and Equitable Trust Co., New York consignees, there are believed to be only two courses left open to the Soviet Government, withdrawal of the gold or letting it lie idle in the vaults.

It is considered more likely that the first step will be taken since the gold, now valueless, is causing a loss to the Soviet of about $700 a day in interest. This now amounts to more than $10,000.

WOMEN FAVOR DAWES, MEN WANT HOOVER FOR PRESIDENT New York District Delegate Candidate Finds This Division in Canvassing 62 Voters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 7.—Robert P. Levis, candidate for district delegate to the Republican national convention, recently made a canvass of the apartment house where he lives. Of the 38 enrolled Republicans there, Levis saw 23. The men were all Hoover enthusiasts and the women were all for Vice President Dawes.

Levis became interested in this division. He went to a neighboring apartment house and canvassed 24 more enrolled Republicans. Here again, he found the men were for Hoover and the women for Dawes.

REED TO TAKE STUMP IN MIDDLE WEST Missouri Senator to Speak in Oklahoma City and Address Kentucky Legislature.

By the Associated Press. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 7.—A short tour of the Middle West will be made by Senator Reed of Missouri, before he returns next week to Washington.

While he is on the homeward trip of a tour which has carried him into nine Southwest and far Western states, the Missouri Democratic presidential candidate had under consideration invitations to speak in Wisconsin where he faces a contest in the primary of April 2, with Senator Walsh of Montana and Gov. Smith of New York.

He will speak in Oklahoma City late this week and to the Kentucky Legislature next Monday. If he goes to Wisconsin at this time it will come back from Kentucky, reporting a no true bill.

Leaders here that his trip was the outgrowth of the acceptance of an invitation to speak in Topeka last month and that he had gone around the circuit in response to "persistent requests."

INDICTMENT REFUSED IN ORIENT RAILROAD INQUIRY Federal Grand Jury Investigates Reorganization and Returns No True Bill.

By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 7.—The Federal grand jury investigating the affairs of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad failed to return an indictment this afternoon, reporting a no true bill.

William T. Kemper, president of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad, appeared yesterday before the grand jury. The road recently was reorganized under the direction of Kemper, Kansas City financier, formerly its receiver.

Controversy has raged about the reorganization of the railroad since Federal Judge John C. Follock of Kansas authorized lifting the receivership.

Representatives of English note holders have made complaints and various charges, and have carried their grievances to state commissions, to the Interstate Commerce Commission and various other branches of the Federal Government.

STIMSON FOR PRIVATE BUSINESS MANILA, March 7.—Making his first declaration regarding Government-owned enterprises in the Philippines, Governor-General Henry L. Stimson today issued a statement declaring "the public need have no fear that I will take any hasty, reckless steps which will unnecessarily sacrifice the present Government investment in these corporations."

Stimson expressed the belief, however, that "as a general policy, business can most efficiently be performed by private capital and private operation." Government-owned and operated enterprises have constituted a problem here for some time.

GOV. SMITH AND LOWDEN INDORSED IN SOUTH DAKOTA

New York Executive Defeats Senator Walsh in Democratic Convention by Close Vote.

DAWES FAVORED FOR RENOMINATION Secretary Hoover Still Undecided Whether to Enter Indiana Republican Primary.

By the Associated Press. PIERRE, S. D., March 7.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York (Dem.), and Frank O. Lowden of Illinois (Rep.), have been named by their respective parties in South Dakota for nomination for the presidency.

Smith's running mate, as named at yesterday's Democratic State Propositional Meeting, would be Gov. Dan Moody of Texas. Vice President Charles G. Dawes was favored for renomination by the Republicans.

Lowden was the unopposed and unanimous choice of the Republicans, but Smith's name was opposed that of United States Senator Walsh of Montana. One ballot was enough to decide the issue, with Smith receiving 43,876 votes to 41,213 for Senator Walsh. Each proposal man cast the number of votes polled in his county at the last gubernatorial election, a majority being enough for indorsement.

Announcement of the vote brought prolonged cheering from the Smith proposal men. Holton Davenport, who has directed the Smith movement in South Dakota, presented the name of Smith to the meeting as a "supporter of the underdog and justice," and as a man on "the right side" of agricultural problems.

In addition to expressing his preference for President and vice President each convention indorsed candidates for various state offices and adopted national and state platforms.

United States Senator Peter Norbeck of this State, was the first Republican choice for Vice President, but he sent a telegram from Washington, asking that the honor go to Vice President Dawes.

The Republican platform favored farm relief, prohibition enforcement and praised President Coolidge. The Democrats adopted a platform for farm relief, economy and praise for the State administration of Gov. Bulow.

In a third state convention, the Farmer-Labor party adopted a platform urging government control of public utilities and condemned "chill warnings" office holders.

Hoover Still Undecided on Entering Indiana Primary. WASHINGTON, March 7.—While Secretary Hoover was still inclined tonight to remain out of the Republican primaries in Indiana, final decision rested largely in a conference of a group of his supporters in Indianapolis. Thirty-three delegates to the Kansas City convention are at stake, and if the Secretary decides to make a fight for them he must file a declaration by Thursday night.

Here and in Indiana, one group of Hoover's followers are urging him to enter the primaries, while another is advising him to stay out on the ground that he probably would wage a losing battle against Senator James E. Watson, who already has filed as a presidential candidate.

Several days ago Hoover, who has entered the primaries in Ohio, Michigan and Maryland, and intends to file in at least three other states, conferred here with Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, and E. M. Wasmuth of Huntington.

He also discussed the situation with former Governor Goodrich, who is active in his pre-convention campaign; Postmaster-General New, whose home is in Indianapolis; George B. Lockwood of Muncie, former secretary of the Republican National Committee, who is in charge of Hoover campaign headquarters here; and others.

The Hoover managers here view the Indiana situation differently from the fight Hoover is making in Ohio against Senator Willis for convention delegates. There, under the law, if he carries any corner, he will get the support at Kansas City of those delegates.

In Indiana, however, the instructions of the entire delegation depend on the State-wide result of the primary. Whoever gets a majority will receive the votes of all the State's delegates until he renounces the law.

Hoover Still Undecided on Entering Indiana Primary. WASHINGTON, March 7.—While Secretary Hoover was still inclined tonight to remain out of the Republican primaries in Indiana, final decision rested largely in a conference of a group of his supporters in Indianapolis. Thirty-three delegates to the Kansas City convention are at stake, and if the Secretary decides to make a fight for them he must file a declaration by Thursday night.

Here and in Indiana, one group of Hoover's followers are urging him to enter the primaries, while another is advising him to stay out on the ground that he probably would wage a losing battle against Senator James E. Watson, who already has filed as a presidential candidate.

Several days ago Hoover, who has entered the primaries in Ohio, Michigan and Maryland, and intends to file in at least three other states, conferred here with Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher of the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, and E. M. Wasmuth of Huntington.

He also discussed the situation with former Governor Goodrich, who is active in his pre-convention campaign; Postmaster-General New, whose home is in Indianapolis; George B. Lockwood of Muncie, former secretary of the Republican National Committee, who is in charge of Hoover campaign headquarters here; and others.

The Hoover managers here view the Indiana situation differently from the fight Hoover is making in Ohio against Senator Willis for convention delegates. There, under the law, if he carries any corner, he will get the support at Kansas City of those delegates.

In Indiana, however, the instructions of the entire delegation depend on the State-wide result of the primary. Whoever gets a majority will receive the votes of all the State's delegates until he renounces the law.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always stand for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The "Pathetic" Symphony.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
GROWN-UP children cry for it all over America," writes Thomas B. Sherman, speaking disparagingly of the "Pathetic" symphony in his review of last week's symphony concert, which moves me to ask just why, in late years at least, the placing of this number on a program causes musical critics to gather up their collection of denunciatory adjectives.

Now it happens that I am not a "Tchaikowski-ite," having outgrown that phase of musical development some years back. I am aware of the fact that as a composer he was somewhat of an "in and out." But if musical genius consists of conveying a message to others by means of musical utterance, then this composition is surely worthy of a high place among musical writings, for the message of this symphony is clear and unmistakable. It is directed primarily at that type of mind which, unable to take the world at its face value, thinks and feels deeply, cannot drag its shoulders at life, and feels impelled to protest at its tenuity and the general order of things. Truly, then, this composition was not written for grown-up children, although one does not have to be a philosophical adult to enjoy it.

This is the point for most of us. That it is better to listen to a composition which may have a few faults, but which one can readily overlook for the sake of beauty as a whole, rather than to sit through a composition, technically flawless, but devoid of that inspiration without which music is dead and useless. Of course, where one can have both it is better. There are better symphonies than the "Pathetic." But this much may be said for it. It gets you somewhere, which is more than can be said for a handful of some of the musical drivelings of some of the more modern composers. Whatever its faults, it is a superlatively beautiful number.

JOHN HEINTZ.

Initiate a Liability Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
WHY, oh why, do not our legislators pass an automobile liability insurance law to stop the appalling slaughter of our people by automobiles? Such a law would do more to stop automobile killings and accidents than all other laws combined, because auto drivers would have to be careful to keep their licenses, which would not be given except with an insurance policy, after strict examination.

Why does not the initiative and referendum league take steps to pass this law, or have it passed to protect everybody? Even auto owners—the intelligent class—would vote for it to protect themselves from the pauper maniac drivers who run into them as well as other people.

It is evident our auto controlled Legislature will not willingly pass this law, so it is up to the people's legislature—the initiative and referendum league—to have the law passed.

Uncomfortable Side Seats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
AFTER seeing the title signed "Forward" in your Saturday paper, I could not resist adding my complaint to the regarding the "long seats" on the street cars. They certainly are uncomfortable to sit on after putting in a hard day's work, and I for one, always jump into one of the "regular" seats as he calls them, and know a lot of my friends who do likewise.

Here's hoping the Public Service Co. will wake up and put more of the cars with the seats facing the front of the car on their lines.

What Chemical Reduces Smoke?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
LOUIS P. KAUNE of Jennings, Mo., tells us how successfully he prevents making smoke by having his soft coal chemically treated for a few cents a ton and intimates that others should do likewise. However, this writer had never heard of any process of treating soft coal with chemicals to prevent smoke for a few cents per ton and likely a few others have not either. While I am not greatly concerned, as I am making only a minimum of smoke because of firing my furnace according to instructions given out some time ago by some coal company and I believe also by the anti-smoke committee, I would nevertheless like to try Mr. Kaune's treatment of soft coal if it is not a secret.

Evangelists' Wages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch,
DO YOU know I can't help but contrast the sum of money Billy Sunday earned here during his recent seven-weeks' visit (some $1000 per week) with the money Christ and his apostles got for preaching their faith and spreading the "gospel." I wonder what Jesus would have thought about Sunday's money-gathering antics? I fail to find a single instance in Scripture where Jesus passed the contribution box. He seems to have done all his work at his own expense. Billy, however, isn't ashamed to take the money.

RELIGION FREE-FOR-ALL.

REED'S HARMONY PROGRAM.

Senator James A. Reed has dropped discord and is preaching harmony. He is seeking to harmonize the Democratic party.

"If we write our differences into the platform," he said to the State Democratic Committee at Utah, "we insure the perpetuation of those differences at the polls, and the continuation of the Republican party in power." This remark was made in connection with a discussion of the prohibition issue. The Senator wants prohibition dropped.

Expediency is the keynote of the harmonizer. In order to harmonize the party and thus to secure victory at the polls over the Republican party the Senator must select only those issues upon which all Democrats would unite, without regard to principles that may be involved in other issues.

What are the issues upon which all Democrats could be united? The Senator has two, or rather one with its corollary. Honest government, and honest politics—the rooting out of corruption in both. Doubtless all honest American citizens will agree on this platform, Republicans as well as Democrats. Honest Republicans as well as Democrats condemn the corruptions of the Harding administration and the buying of seats in the two Republican States of Pennsylvania and Illinois. These scandals attack the Republican party. The Republican party organization is involved in the Teapot Dome scandal, by accepting money from Sinclair.

The Coolidge administration is not chargeable with the corruption of the Harding administration, but there are certain effects of it that taint the Coolidge administration. There has been an indefensible indifference and inactivity towards unearthing the scandals and towards punishing the rascals.

So far as Mr. Coolidge's personal honesty is concerned, we do not believe that it can be questioned. He has made his own blunders. He has been subservient to Big Business, even to the packing of commissions in its favor. He made some mistakes in the Mexican controversy, and has blundered in Nicaragua. There is an issue against the Republican party and its politicians in power, on the ground of corruption. And there are grave criticisms against Mr. Coolidge's administration.

Can Senator Reed, however, induce the Democratic party to drop all other issues and unite on selected issues and find majority support for them in the American people? How can he drop certain issues in which he has said vital principles and the safety of the republic are involved? Will he drop the question of the participation of the United States in the League of Nations and the Permanent Court of International Justice, upon which he staked his political life? He attacked viciously the Permanent Court and all who supported it in his Jackson Day speech.

In all his speeches he attacks Federal usurpation and invasion of State rights and powers and the multiplication of Federal bureaus.

How can he preach the restoration of the Constitution and its restrictions on Federal powers, and ignore the greatest usurpation, the most radical invasion of State rights and powers which are embodied in the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act? How can he stick to his principles and ignore prohibition?

One of the hardest things he will have to do is to get all the Democrats to agree to drop the prohibition issue, and to support the party if it is ignored and utterly thrust aside.

The tariff is another issue, one of the greatest if not the greatest of the economic issues. There are differences among the Democrats on that subject.

Senator Reed will agree that the question of honest government and honest politics depends on the election of honest men. We believe the defeat of the Republican organization would be a good purgative for government and politics. But how far the election can center on that issue alone is a doubtful question. It will depend largely upon the action of both parties in convention.

We shall be interested in finding out what issues Senator Reed will finally pick as the issues upon which the Democrats can agree, and how far in doing that he will sacrifice principle to expediency. His speeches have not yet fully indicated an elimination of differences, but in directing the public mind to scandals in government and politics, he is doing good service.

There is one big question in connection with his harmony program which we submit to Senator Reed: How can the Democratic party ignore fundamental principles and vital issues for the purpose of getting into power, and convince the American people that the party and its candidates are honest?

IN COMPLIMENT TO HARRY.

Having pinned a medal on Forbes and issued a commission to Detective Burns, it does seem as if Uncle Sam ought to do something for Harry Sinclair. Just what? Well, what other man has done as much for the legal profession in the post-Teapot Dome era as Mr. Sinclair has? That dream of Juror Kidwell's of "an automobile a block long" is no mirage for Sinclair's lawyers. Thanks to their client's munificence anyone of his counselors could have such a car if he so chose. So why can't the Government bestow on this philanthropist a dashing poster depicting him dispensing largesse to his learned advisers. The caption, of course, is obvious: It's an oil wind that blows nobody good but the lawyers.

Lindbergh finds that he can escape us only by talking to the air, and he fortunately is an aviator.

SCOTLAND YARD STUFF.

A few months ago Chief of Police McDonnell of Webster Groves arrested a man suspected of having run down and killed an elderly news vendor with his automobile. The circumstantial case against the suspect was almost perfect. It depended on clean-out wheel tracks made by a tireless rim. But the man protested his innocence and McDonnell continued his search. He found other wheel tracks made by the tireless rim of another machine. He arrested a second man, who proved to be the guilty party. It was careful, intelligent police work.

On Wednesday last the Old Orchard Bank of Webster Groves was held up during the noon hour. Two days later McDonnell had solved the case. By noon of the third day he had the three principals under arrest.

The task he faced was to find a certain youth with pockmarked cheeks. McDonnell actually set forth to check up on every person in the county who might answer the description, and he learned someone had seen a pockmarked youth in conversation with another young man on a Webster bus. McDonnell followed that trail for a day and "broke" the case. The admittedly guilty men are in jail. Part of the loot is recovered. Andrew McDonnell may be Chief of Police in a small community. But he makes a noise like Scotland Yard.

CITY'S POWER OVER UTILITIES.

In 1903 the city levied a mill tax per fare on the United Railways by ordinance and the dispute growing out of that levy has only now been settled. The company's resistance to the tax is epical. Twice the case was taken through all the lower courts to the Supreme Court of the United States. What seemed an interminable legal battle was finally ended in 1919 with a complete victory for the city. In that year, the company, having consumed 16 years in legal maneuvers, reached a compromise agreement with the city to pay $2,421,568.45 of the more than $3,500,000 in judgments that had been rendered against it.

It seemed the city was at last to get at least part of its money. But three months later the company went broke. Under the receivership, the city was in the position of an unsecured creditor whose claim must defer to all liens on the property. The receiver paid the current mill tax, but could not satisfy the old debt. That condition persisted until the company was reorganized this year as the Public Service Co. Again the claim was presented and the new company offered to pay one-third of it in cash or two-thirds in preferred stock. The city hall accepted the stock and in doing so is in effect lending the city's money to the company at 7 per cent interest, that being the dividend on preferred stock.

The final outcome is a grotesque commentary on the supposed regulatory power of the city over a utility to which it gives the freedom of its streets for profit-making purposes. After a quarter of a century we are getting only interest on part of a debt held totally valid twice by the highest court in the land. Even if the promoters make millions, the city will get only 7 per cent on its contribution to the company's capital, and if the new company, like the old one, goes broke, the city again will be in the position of an unsecured creditor, forced to take what it can get.

THE SMITHSONIAN OVERTURE.

The Smithsonian Institution is a minority of one in its controversy with Orville Wright as regards the first airplane that flew. It may be that Prof. Langley's machine, as the Smithsonian Institution claims, was theoretically capable of carrying a man into the air under its own power. But it never did it. The Wrights' machine did do it. The difference is that between an admirable ambition and an accomplished fact.

The Smithsonian Institution has attempted, by its official label, to give to Prof. Langley a fame he did not win. Such award might—ultimately it likely would—defraud the Wright brothers of their rightful place in history. Now the institution offers to revise the inscription on the original Langley machine and give equal recognition to that man-bearing fledgling of the Wrights that fluttered skyward from the gusty dunes of Kitty Hawk. Mr. Orville Wright has properly declined the overture.

There cannot in fairness and truth be 50-50 division between the Wright brothers and Langley. The discovery, construction and flight of the first heavier-than-air machine carrying a man under its own power belong to the Wright brothers. The amendment, however, we think, requires the Smithsonian Institution to record that fact without any kind of quibble, or any trace of counterclaim.

For a Napoleon of Finance how about General Motors?

REPRESENTATIVE HOWARD AND THE LOBBY.

Representative Howard of Nebraska wants to imprison ex-members of Congress who return to lobby. He thinks that in this way alone can they be properly punished for abusing their privilege of the floor.

It is a fact that what was intended as a courtesy has become a menace. In the fight over the power inquiry two former members of the Senate, Lenroot and Thomas, openly lobbied for the great power interests. If an Insull would pay hundreds of thousands of dollars for a Senate seat, what is it worth to have in such a contest as that just ended at Washington a powerful and privileged champion like Lenroot?

The lobby which defeated the power inquiry started Congress. No such display of corporate power had ever been made at the capital. The strength and resources of that great lobby, constituted as it did a veritable super-congress, aroused men in both the House and Senate. It is encouraging to know that it has had this effect. Congress can, if it will, destroy the lobby. It should do so. It is absurd that in any vital test of the strength between the people and predatory wealth there should be a super-congress to exercise the power of veto upon that body.

No greater evil could befall the republic. The time to destroy it is before it destroys us.

As a betting proposition our money goes on Batting Bob Stewart any time he gets into the ring with Kid Rockefeller.

CHAMPAGNE PHILOSOPHY WORKS.

And now Count Kaysersling has only a 500 batting average in the Banquet Invitation Refusal League. It was only a few days ago that the Count, turning down an invitation to meet Emil Ludwig at the festive board, stood out as the champion invitation refuser of the season's hot banquets. But that was before Upton Sinclair got into the running.

You may depend upon Upton Sinclair lowering someone's egotistical average at almost any time. When he does it he doesn't mince words, and he remains true to form in his note to Kaysersling. He doesn't write to sup at the same table with the Count, he writes that gentleman, because he has "no interest in any philosophy which is nourished on champagne and adolescent femininity" and he doesn't "wish to meet any such philosopher."

Those are harsh words, and that is what Sinclair meant them to be. But Kaysersling replies he is unperturbed. If he is, the Count has proved himself the perfect philosopher—or the consummate egotist.

Will Hays was a far better witness on his second appearance before the Senate Public Lands Committee than he was on the first. Such progress ought to be encouraged. Call the gentleman from Indiana again.

Mass-Production Poverty

From the New Republic.

MASS production has received high credit for creating the new national wealth of America. It is the goal of nine out of 10 industrial reformers in Europe. It reduces costs, it amplifies the effectiveness of labor, it lowers prices and raises wages. Henry Ford is the very type and symbol of mass production. "Fordization" has joined the vocabularies of a dozen languages. We are therefore deeply indebted to Paul U. Kellogg for two discerning articles in the Survey Graphic which lift the gleaming surface of mass production, so that the reader can see its corroded under side—the poverty and insecurity which it has also created, when employed by Ford without much eye to the human stuff which goes into it.

Perhaps 500,000 people are affected, directly or indirectly, by Ford's employment policies. Between the time when his production of Model T was still at its height—in January, 1925—and the time when his factory was at a minimum during the introduction of Model A, about 27,000 employees were laid off from his payroll. The chart of employment in the city issued by the Detroit Employers' Association shows a drop in about the same period of approximately 10,000 wages-earners. This figure is not a bad estimate of those affected by the corresponding shut-downs in local supply and equipment plants, as well as in the Ford plants themselves. No one knows how many lost their jobs in other cities, but even $0.000 out of work, at $4 a day, means a loss of $0.000,000 monthly to wage-earners and their families, not to speak of those who sell their groceries, houses and services.

Ford seemed casually to assume, if he thought about it at all, that the "high wages" these people had been receiving when at work would tide them over. Undoubtedly it did, for some, and for a time. But Mr. Kellogg found plenty of evidence in Detroit that this cushion was hardly deep enough to absorb the blow. Small stores, real estate business, banks holding mortgages on homes being purchased on the installment plan, were all hard hit. The Community Fund had to ask for $600,000 more than the year before, for relief. (Mr. Ford and his family contributed $175,000—as charity—to this fund.)

MASS production was responsible for the extreme standardization of product which made it fail to keep up with competition and improvement and style, altering the demand. Mass production was responsible for the extreme difficulty and delay in changing special-purpose machinery and processes when it became necessary to change the product. Mass production was responsible for the limited training of workers of one-operation workers, who could not fill other kinds of jobs in other plants even if such jobs were open. This limited training, in turn, makes it difficult for Ford to reemploy some of these men, or to find others suitable, for the more exacting jobs connected with the production of the new car. It is significant that, failing to find enough skilled machinists produced by the modern processes of machine industry, Mr. Ford has had to start a training school of his own. Standardization and simplification of product have led, it seems, to standardization of skill on too simple a level.

We cannot escape some form of mass production. No sensible person would advocate a return to handicrafts or non-specialization in making common necessities. The purpose of looking for the consverse under surface is to see how it may be managed to the better interest of the workers and the community. It is foolish for manufacturers, as extreme and doctrinaire individuals, to institute forces which lead to chronic unemployment, and then, as members of the community, to adopt the wasteful practice of relieving part of the unemployment through charity, and letting part of it remain unrelieved to cast its dead weight on the markets, the credit structure and industry generally.

THE workers collectively have had no way of making their influence felt, or of enlisting brains and ingenuity to solve their problems, at all comparable to the brains and ingenuity which have gone into the mechanical side of the enterprise. The Ford Motor Co. had built up an immense cash surplus, which enabled Mr. Ford to take care of the interests of the plant and machinery, of the creditors and stockholders, when the shift was made. Surpluses are ordinarily used to pay dividends and interest when slack times come. In this case Mr. Ford extended its use in the interest of the consumers—and hence of himself—by not charging into the overhead of the new car any of the reserves which he had to spend to change over his plant. But it never occurred to anyone in a position of responsibility that the workers were in the company or in the industry, that they had helped to build that surplus, and that part of it might have been set aside, as it was accumulated, to take care of them when production slackened, just as consumers were taken care of when the plant, the stockholders and the consumers were taken care of when production slackened.

Studies by the National Bureau of Economic Research confirm what has previously been indicated—that in the fluctuation between good and bad times the stream of income which goes to stock and bond holders is steadier, suffers less from reduction, than any other kind of income. Wage-earners, on the other hand, suffer more than any other kind of income except profits. The point is that out of profits is created the reservoir of surplus to stabilize the flow of payments to investors, though industry creates no such stabilizing. Where trade-union movements are strong, reservoirs for labor are created by unemployment insurance. They are created in certain industries in this country where trade unions are strong. But, as the Detroit Chamber of Commerce proudly boasts, there are no unions in the automobile industry.

Even the methods adopted by the Ford plans for choosing the men to be laid off and distributing the work among those retained came, as the workers say, "down through the roof." In these relatively simple matters labor's store of desires and experience could not be consulted, labor's consent was not obtained. The executives did the best they could in this respect, improvising from their own limited experience without aid. Their best was little.

It is a question how long labor can be successfully handled as if it were an inert store of mechanical power. It is a question how well American society can endure such handling of labor, even if it is successful for the individual manufacturer. All we can do is to hope that there will be some answer to these questions different from that promised us in the future by Weisbord.

True Tales of Heroism

BOOK AND FILE. True Stories of the Great War. By Theodore Roosevelt. (Scribner.)
It is not strange that so large a percentage of war books by veterans should take a cynical view of the whole bloody, muddy, muddled business. They were victims in keeping with the prevalent mood of profound disgust, due less, perhaps, to actual physical conditions of great conflict than to the belated discovery of a general holocaust in the high-sounding professions of the nations.

War books with the lift and glow of victory in them, such as one feels "Fix Bayonets," for instance, are relatively rare, and yet such as are held in high esteem by those who fought over there and who are not so much of a cynic as it is a matter of mood and viewpoint and focal length of vision. The cynical drab blood-and-meat accounts are undoubtedly enough, and therefore, to be told, as the relatively unadorned, and yet admittedly authentic, books of the war simply are.

Theodore Roosevelt has added more books to this relative few that take into account the high overtones in an otherwise drably written business. He has the fine Plutarchian sense of the life of a man, and his notable in his father's life towards the end. Theodore Roosevelt here celebrates the national aristocracy of high heroism revealed in men of all social classes and races during the great war. It is a book that, aside from intense story interest, was deeply to be written, in that it is how fundamental human nature is to be sought along the lines of a vertical, and not a horizontal, social and racial cleavage. A fundamental human worth revealed in war has been revealed by some doctrinaire pacifist, surely, to be able to throw self away in the interest of a cause deemed to be the right, the safety of the group with which one is identified, is a rather thing, however, the general idea may be deplored. And good to remember and to console such deeds.

There are nine stories in the collection, all of which have been gathered from authentic sources and most of which are as yet unknown to the public.

One of the most fascinating aspects of heroism in the volume is "The Old-Timer." It is the story of an apparently ordinary group of men of the Twenty-eighth Infantry. Were this published as a tale, it would seem the exaggerated product of an over-imaginative imagination. It is the story of an apparently ordinary group of men of the Twenty-eighth Infantry. One of the most fascinating aspects of heroism in the volume is "The Old-Timer." It is the story of an apparently ordinary group of men of the Twenty-eighth Infantry. Were this published as a tale, it would seem the exaggerated product of an over-imaginative imagination.

It is a book that, aside from intense story interest, was deeply to be written, in that it is how fundamental human nature is to be sought along the lines of a vertical, and not a horizontal, social and racial cleavage. A fundamental human worth revealed in war has been revealed by some doctrinaire pacifist, surely, to be able to throw self away in the interest of a cause deemed to be the right, the safety of the group with which one is identified, is a rather thing, however, the general idea may be deplored. And good to remember and to console such deeds.

True Tales of Heroism

AND FILE. True Stories of the Great War. By Theodore Roosevelt. (Scribner.)

It is not strange that so large a percentage of war books by veterans should take a cynical view of the business. They were in the thick of it, and they know the most of profound disillusionment, due to the discovery of a general holocaust in the high-sounding professions of the war.

But the books with the lift and glow in them, such as one feels in "The Boy Scouts," for instance, are held in high esteem by those who fought over there and who know the truth of the matter of mood and spirit and focal length of the war.

The cynical, drab, blood-soaked accounts are undoubtedly the most common, but there is something in the relatively unadorned, and yet admittedly dramatic, books of the war which are not to be despised.

These Roosevelt have added to the book to this relative few, and take into account the high and low of the war.

WILLIAM B. EDGAR DIES

AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Retired Secretary of Zinc Company 112 Two Days—Was 84 Years Old.

William Boyce Edgar, who until his retirement from active business 12 years ago, was secretary of the Edgar Zinc Co., died today of infirmities at the home of a daughter, Mrs. R. B. Whittemore, in the St. Regis Apartments. He was 84 years old.

In good health until Monday, Mr. Edgar collapsed at that time, and did not rally. He was a son of T. B. Edgar, a pioneer banker of St. Louis, who settled here in 1820.

The funeral will be at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home of another daughter, Mrs. Gerard B. Allen, 4632 Maryland avenue, with interment in Bellefontaine cemetery.

In addition to Mrs. Whittemore and Mrs. Allen, Mr. Edgar leaves two daughters, Mrs. Henry Bennett of Detroit and Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, and two sisters, Mrs. Frances Edgar Rice of St. Louis and Mrs. Charles B. McClure of Salem, Ore.

RUTH NAPIER MAKES HER DEBUT AS PROFESSIONAL

Youthful Webster Groves Pianist Plays in Concert at the Sheldon Memorial.

Miss Ruth Napier, an 18-year-old pianist from Webster Groves, made what was described as her professional debut last night at the Sheldon Auditorium in the presence of a well-filled house.

A glance at the program revealed that this charming young woman was not trying to make it easy for herself on her trial flight.

It started with a Bach Fantasia and fugue arranged by Liszt and closed with Godowsky's version of Strauss' "Artists' Life" waltz.

Miss Napier solved the fiendish mechanical difficulties of these and other numbers without embarrassment, displaying during the process a surprising power, velocity and correctness in playing the notes. She quickly showed in fact that the physical means of translating the written notes into significant sound patterns were hers in abundance. It was equally evident that Miss Napier had not yet reached the point in her general development where she could grasp the inward meaning of what she was playing.

Her tone was often hard and her dynamics were applied arbitrarily rather than with a discriminating regard for the peculiar demands of each musical situation. The explanation, I am sure, is a psychological one. Miss Napier's growth as an artist will correspond to her growth in human understanding.

Presumably Miss Napier will defer the actual practice of her profession until she has done more studying. But even as matters stand she is certainly the best looking pianist in America.

Day by Day in Paris

By O. O. McIntyre

THE change in time somehow or other makes most Americans awoken before daylight for a week of so, but there is pleasant compensation for this annoyance in seeing Paris awoken from its sluggish well of sleep. It leaps to life like a trout to the fly.

The low hung clouds change away from blue to yellow to pink glow that has inspired innumerable enraptured poets. Wreaths of smoke curl from a million chimneys putting brilliant on the roof tops. Ponderous doors open with a thunder of bangs. Shop shutters are lifted with a clatter.

Bread boys hurl yard-long loaves to the pavement from tri-cyclé wagons. Early workers seem to be whistling, and the sidewalk trees are alive with chirping birds. Cathedral bells ring the clear call to early worship. Dawn comes like frosty starlight. And the east is slashed with fire.

The town bubbles in the early morning as though it might be an unquenched spring of gaiety—colossal and a bit untidy, but congenially stimulating. You feel an eagerness to do something foolish—like turning a handspring in Place Vendôme or playing tag with a gendarme.

From my window is a medley of impressions. A priest in one of those pancake flat berberies bicycles by with his robe ends straight out in the breeze. A black-aproned waiter on the sidewalk tables. An old woman whose back is bent with a load of firewood trudges along.

A glazier with his shoulder pack of glass rings a diamond bell to announce his presence. Perky mid-nettes are delivering packages from millinery and dressmaking establishments. Coal and wood carts with belled horses driven tandem. A swarthy man in a turban. Men who wear black gloves and white wet edging.

Near my hotel at intervals there is a rising hum of shouting that reaches a din. It comes from school children unloosed for recess play. It is typical of the Parisian zest for frolic. And it seems to be just as unrestrained among the elders. Life is a big whoop in the morning, and it is only at night when it is shuttered.

It was interesting to watch what is comparable to our city salesman call on the proprietor of a barber shop. He shook hands all around, discussed family matters with each, offered cigarettes, told a story or so, and I rather expected them to snap into a wait. Finally he touched upon the need of barber supplies, and finding no need, shook hands all around again and departed. A good time was had by all.

The carrier of coals to Newcastle would have found a companion in the fellow in a Montmartre night club who brought along his own in a flask.

WENT TO BREAK JAIL FAILS

Prisoners at Robinson, Ill., Saved Cars.
ROBINSON, Ill., March 7.—Prisoners at Robinson, Ill., who were freed by a fire in the Crawford County Jail, were defeated in their plans to break jail late Sunday night. The prisoners were seen to have saved their way out of the "bull pen" into the corridor next to the outside wall, which is composed of concrete blocks. When discovered they were removing blocks which would have permitted their escape. The prisoners having a part in the plans are: Jack Marshall, Lowell Wade, Lawrence Corey and Clarence Bishop. Sheriff C. H. Wallace is of the opinion that the saws were passed through a window to the prisoners Saturday night.

FOE OF DOG RACING BEATEN IN PRIMARY

Alvin C. Bohm Wins G. O. P. Nomination for State's Attorney in Madison County.

Joseph P. Streuber of Alton, who opposed dog racing, was defeated by an overwhelming majority in the special primary election in Madison County yesterday for the Republican nomination of State's Attorney by Alvin C. Bohm.

Complete unofficial returns from the 82 precincts in the county show a heavy vote, with Bohm polling 10,387 and Streuber 6,237. Streuber carried only 19 precincts, running strongest in Highland and Alton, Edwardsville, Collinsville and the tri-cities went strong for Bohm. So far there is no Democratic candidate for State's Attorney.

Bohm will be voted on April 10, State primary day, to fill out until November, the unexpired term of Jesse H. Brown, who resigned as State's Attorney upon his election as Circuit Judge. When Bohm was appointed by the Board of Supervisors last June, the appointment was questioned, and the Supreme Court ordered a special primary.

On April 10 Bohm's name will be on another primary ballot as candidate for the nomination for the regular four-year term, the election for which will be held in November.

Streuber stressed law enforcement and a promise not to allow the greyhound track of the Madison Kennel Club to open, as the main issues of his campaign. Bohm disregarded this issue.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS ATTRIBUTED TO MILK

Disease Comes From Cows Eating Jimson-Weed, Says Dr. Marsh Pitzman.

Poisons in the milk of cows which had eaten the jimson weed were advanced as the cause of infantile paralysis, after a year and a half of observation and experiments at Washington University School of Medicine, by Dr. Marsh Pitzman last night, in an address before the St. Louis Medical Society.

In many communities the disease is among the most destructive of life, according to physicians. Those who recover frequently are incapacitated by a permanent paralysis. It is a wide-spread factor in the crippled children problem which is absorbing much of the attention of modern science and philanthropy.

The accepted theory, Dr. Pitzman remarked, was that the disease is caused by an ultra microscopic virus. He cited that faith had weakened in it since it was worked out about 15 years ago by one of the large research institutions, that some doubt was being cast even on the idea that the disease was at all infectious.

He cited that the irregular lines on which the disease spreads had been one of the most mystifying factors to explain by contagion. He had found no case in the literature of the last 50 years, however, which could not be explained by the theory of a common source, rather than contagion from case to case, and in some instances the only characteristic which distinguished the children who took the disease from their playmates who did not was a common milk supply.

Previously, he said, milk had been suspected in epidemics of infantile paralysis, but had been scrutinized for bacteria or animal poisons, and not vegetable poisons. He estimated the effects of various poisons if transmitted through milk, and by a process of elimination, arrived at atropin. This drug produces a fever, as in the disease, and stimulates respiration, from which he judged that an overdose might paralyze the breathing apparatus, which is a common cause of death in infantile paralysis.

Atropin in Jimson Weed. Atropin, he knew, was common in jimson weed. It is said that backwoods beauties used the juice of the weed to darken the eyes by the known dilating properties of the drug. And he also knew that jimson weed was a common growth in cow pastures, starting up in the spring before other vegetation was up, and remaining in the hot dry weather after other plants had withered. Here was another link for the disease was most prevalent early in the spring and again in the hot late summer.

From a chemical concern he learned that the leaves of the weed contained not only a high percentage of atropin, but a considerable amount of another alkaloid closely akin to it, hyoscyamine. This drug was one of varying or largely undetermined effects, and he had heard rumors, he remarked, that in some cases paralysis had followed overdoses of it.

Tells of Experiments. Obtaining the two alkaloids in the exact proportions in which they are found in the leaves of the weeds, he began a series of experiments with cats and dogs at the university medical school. The animals refused to touch milk contaminated with the mixture, but injections under the skin produced the characteristic brief fever and temporary paralysis, progressing through the upper and lower limbs to the breathing apparatus, very much like the progress of the disease in man.

"There was one fundamental difference," he said. "There was no permanent paralysis. When the animals recovered, they recovered completely."

"I would account for that by the theory that the poison is a specific for human beings, just as the animal poison of yellow fever affects men and not animals. Several hundred times as great a dose in proportion to weight was required to produce the temporary effect in the animals."

"The specific effect for man would be in the destruction of cells, which produces the permanent paralysis. Such nerve destruction is produced by wood alcohol and rabies, and there are many other examples of poisons which are specific for man and not for animals. The mixture of atropin and hyoscyamine also appears to have no effect whatever on cows and other herbivores."

Attention to the source of milk was the preventive measure suggested by his hypothesis, he said, but his advice to the lady would be to consult the family physician and follow his advice. His work might be checked, he said, by closer observation of milk supply in future cases.

"It probably is not an accident," he said, "that St. Louis is virtually free of the disease, while in New York it is one of the most serious health problems. The milk there comes from a great number of small dairies, while here it comes for the most part from two large dairies where the milk is all mixed together. Granting that the alkaloids cause the disease, in this mixing the solution is so weakened as to become harmless."

'TESTIMONIAL' DINNERS AT $10 A PLATE PROFITABLE 'RACKET'

Chicago Better Business Bureau Exposes Game of "Tap List" and "Boiler Room."
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, March 7.—Promotion of testimonial dinners at $10 a plate, which returns a profit of $7 a head to the promoters, has caused the Chicago Better Business Bureau to wallopp the "business."

"The hotels have had a busy time all winter," said Flint Grinnell, manager of the bureau. "Almost all leaders in the City Hall have had a 'testimonial' and all those on the payroll had to buy tickets. A 'tap list' and a 'boiler room' are all the promoter needs."

The "boiler room" Grinnell interpreted as a modern office, with a number of pretty girls and solicitors. The "tap list" is a "sucker" list of business men who, through coercion or vanity, will contribute to anything that is likely to result in their names appearing in public print. THE MOTOR OIL OF TODAY—ISO-VIS!

In the old days, if you wanted easy starting you bought a light oil. Under working conditions it became too thin to lubricate the engine.

If you wanted correct lubrication under working conditions, you bought a heavy oil—too heavy to permit easy starting.

If you wanted both easy starting and correct lubrication under working conditions, you had to compromise—to buy a medium oil that met neither requirement satisfactorily.

The engineering staff of Standard Oil Company (Indiana), which took the work of finding an oil which would meet these requirements and give the character of ideals of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

They found that by combining a carefully refined diluent with a product which maintained a practically constant viscosity, this is ISO-VIS.

ISO-VIS makes no compromise. It maintains the proper body for correct lubrication from start to finish. It has a proper body for starting and it gives correct lubrication under working conditions.

At last you can buy satisfactory lubrication! The motorists public meet the needs of ISO-VIS today. There is a grade of ISO-VIS to suit the needs of your car at this season of the year. Try it!

TWO REFEREES WILL HANDLE AMATEUR BOUTS

Harry Sharpe and D. B. Dodson Engaged for District Tourney Tomorrow Night—57 File Entries.

Two referees have been engaged by district boxing officials to officiate in the annual Western A. U. senior championships to be held in conjunction with the sectional Olympic tryouts at the New Coliseum tomorrow night. The contests will be refereed locally by Harry S. Sharpe and D. B. Dodson, according to Robert L. Probst, president of the district association.

With one referee giving instructions to boxers awaiting their turn in the ring while the other is officiating officials expect to prevent any delay between bouts. Arrangements have also been made for a squad of inspectors and tourney officials to co-operate with the fighters in the dressing rooms to prevent delay or confusion in sending contestants to the ring promptly after the drawings. The first bout will go on at 8 o'clock sharp and it is expected that the finals will be decided by midnight.

Entry List Boosted to 57. George Fuchta, a former local lightweight champion, and Edward Johnson have been selected to serve as judges of competition in the absence of Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall and Seneca Taylor. The appointment of Hans Wolff as timekeeper was also announced. Receipt of four more entries for the titular carnival was announced today by Julius J. Kummer, chairman of the registration committee, who stated that 57 boxers are now scheduled to draw for pairings. With this number of entries the tournament should provide a total of 49 bouts provided all prospective contestants pass the prescribed physical tests.

The fact that winners of championship honors in each of the eight weight divisions represented all quality for places on the district team to be sent to Boston next month for the final Olympic tryouts has stimulated stronger interest on the part of local boxers than has been manifested in any district glove carnival of previous years.

12 Organizations Represented. Most of the local candidates have been boxing regularly all winter in tournaments at the South Broadway A. C. or the Motorbus arena and will few exceptions all appear in the splendid physical condition. The South Broadway A. C. with 22 entries, and the Motorbus club, with 17, have the strongest representation of 12 organizations represented on the entry list.

The graduation of Pete White and Dwight Fryer to professional company, and the retirement of Al Keeney leaves three championship contenders and assures the crowning of new district titleholders in the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight divisions. There is also a possibility that new champions will be crowned in the flyweight, superflyweight and light-heavyweight classes, although last year's winners are among the favorites in each of these groups.

"Dark Horses" May Surprise. Among "dark horses" on the entry list are: Abe Cohen, a Tulsa, Ok., flyweight; Mickey Adams, a welterweight, member of the Missouri boxing team; D. H. Moore, a light-heavyweight from Oklahoma City, Ok.; and Zurlinder Pearson, a heavyweight, from Minneapolis, Kansas. Cohen has won ten straight fights, knocking out seven opponents and is recognized as the Oklahoma State champion of his class. Adams, a former U. S. Navy boxer, will be making his debut in local ring circles.

Racing Entries For Tomorrow

Sarazen Wins Bahamas Tourney

Former Open Golf Champion Beats Farrell in Play-Off After Tie.

NASSAU, New Providence, Bahamas, March 7.—After coming up from behind in the last nine holes to finish in a tie with Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, L. I., at 132 for the Bahamas open golf championship, Gene Sarazen, Newport Rickey, Fla., former United States national open champion, produced a birdie two on the third play off hole this afternoon and won the title. Farrell's 15-foot putt in attempting to duplicate his opponent's birdie hit the back of the cup, hesitated and bounced out. They finished the morning nine with Farrell one stroke under Sarazen's score of 100 for the 27 holes. Their scores yesterday were: Sarazen, 34—35—66; Farrell, 34—35—67. Bobby Cruikshank held his third rank with 34—35—69—136. "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn was fourth with 32—35—67—137. Art Demare blew up going out to shoot 40, but recovered coming in for a score of 22 to finish fifth with 139. Light-horse Harry Cooper got into the money with 140. MacDonald Smith, reigning champion American money golfer, won the low 18 and 9 prizes and placed seventh with 34—30—64—141. Jack Hutchison brought up the rear of the winners with 143.

BRIDGE

As Played By Experts

Details of Game Broadcast
Last Night Over the Radio Chain.

MR. WORK and Mr. Whitehead made up their table for the Radio Bridge Game, broadcast last night from Station KSD, with two of Boston's famous players—Mrs. Prescott Warren, noted for her Radio Bridge lectures, and Major R. J. Herman, one of the best of the many excellent players in army circles.

Mrs. Warren was South, the Dealer. She held: Spades 2, 3, 4, 5; Hearts 6; Diamonds K, Q, 3; Clubs 8, 5, 4. Major Herman, West, had: Spades K, J, 10; Hearts A, Q, 7, 2; Diamonds A, 10, 4; Clubs K, J, 10. Mr. Work, North, had: Spades A, Q, 7, 2; Hearts A, 10, 4; Diamonds A, 10, 4; Clubs K, J, 10. Mr. Whitehead, East, had: Spades 6, 3; Hearts K, Q, 10, 9, 4, 2; Diamonds 7, 5, 3; Clubs 9, 6, 3.

Mrs. Warren, South, passed the deal to Mr. Work, North, who opened with one No Trump. Mr. Work, North, doubled informally. He held a typical No Trump hand, but Major Herman had anticipated the bid. In such case the informative double serves its most useful purpose. Mr. Work, sitting over the No Trump bidder, had a distinct advantage in that the fact that his partner already had passed. However, the high-card strength of Mr. Work's hand, and the strong support it would afford for a Major Herman, had anticipated the bid. In such case the informative double serves its most useful purpose. Mr. Work, sitting over the No Trump bidder, had a distinct advantage in that the fact that his partner already had passed. However, the high-card strength of Mr. Work's hand, and the strong support it would afford for a Major Herman, had anticipated the bid. In such case the informative double serves its most useful purpose.

In estimating the strength of his hand, Mr. Work followed his own general rule for a Third or Fourth Hand Informative double after partner has passed. For such double his requirements are at least six high cards that probably will take tricks, distributed between at least three suits. This is one more high card than is required for a Second Hand double. Mr. Work's hand contained six high cards in the Ace and Queen of Spades, the Ace and Jack of Hearts, and the King and Jack of Clubs. In addition there were valuable intermediates in the 10 of Clubs and the Jack and 10 of Diamonds. He counted the Jack of Hearts as a high card in his hand, sitting over the No Trump, because it was accompanied by the Ace and another heart.

Mr. Whitehead, East, bid two Hearts over Mr. Work's double. Mr. Work's double of Maj. Herman's No Trump did not relieve Mr. Whitehead of his obligation to show his partner any strong suit he might hold.

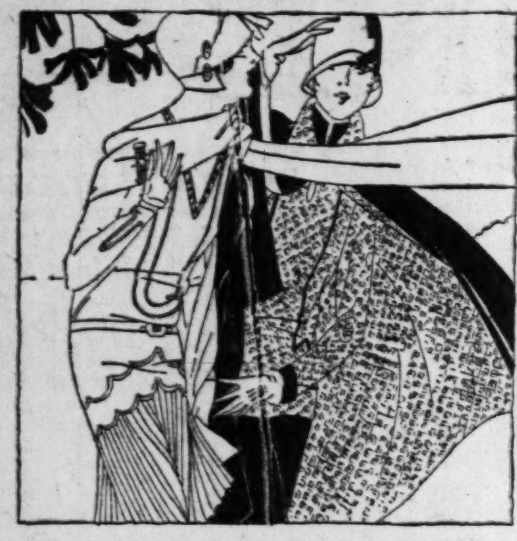

Opening the second round of bidding, Mrs. Warren showed the high caliber of her game by bidding two Spades on her five Spades to the 8 spot. Her partner's double presumably was made with the hope of a response in a Major suit, manifestly a Spade. Mr. Whitehead's intervening bid relieved Mrs. Warren of the obligation to bid; but Mrs. Warren rightly considered that with the King-Queen of Diamonds and five Spades she had the strength to bid voluntarily. Mr. Work, her partner, could not have expected her to hold much strength after her initial pass and Major Herman's No Trump bid, and yet Mr. Work had requested her to bid. She therefore had no hesitation in naming the Spade suit.

Maj. Herman bid three Hearts. He realized that the strength lying over him in Mr. Work's hand materially decreased his own trick-taking possibilities. Yet with three Hearts and strong support for the bid were it not for his unfavorable position, Maj. Herman called upon to give one assist to his partner's free Heart bid, as he knew that Mr. Whitehead would have called a weak suit over an intervening double.

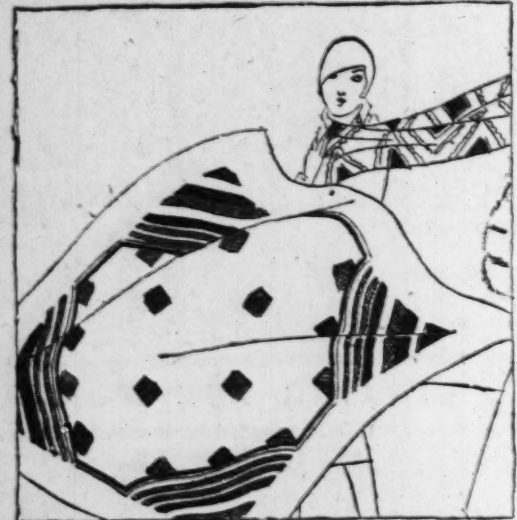

Mr. Work bid three Spades. All passed, and Mrs. Warren became Declarer with her contract three Spades. Maj. Herman opened the play by leading the 8 of Hearts, his bid out of three small cards of his partner's suit. Dummy went down, and Mrs. Warren played from it the Ace of Hearts; Mr. Whitehead played the encouraging 3; and Mrs. Warren her singleton 4. Mrs. Warren noted the desirability of leading both trumps and Clubs from her own hand through Maj. Herman's strong holding. The question of entries in her own hand, therefore, became of paramount importance. She had two entries in the Diamond suit and two more could be secured by Heart ruffs. Four seemed sufficient for her purpose. Accordingly she proceeded to establish her Diamond entries by an unblocking lead of the Jack of Diamonds from Dummy. Mr. Whitehead played the 3; Declarer played the Queen; and Mr. Whitehead played the 3. Dummy returned the 4 of Diamonds to put Declarer in for another trump lead through Maj. Herman's strength. Mr. Whitehead played the 3 of Diamonds; Declarer the 9; Maj. Herman the 2. Declarer led the second Spade, the 3 spot; Major Herman played the

CHIC CHERIE

Proper March Weather

We're not prepared to say that this actually happened, but if it didn't it should have. March is supposed to be this way. And it gives us a chance to show you that Cherie's knit wool frock has a scarf collar and that Dina's ensemble has a cape instead of a coat, and those are useful things to know this Spring. The scarf is monogrammed in applique.

Probably about how he is going to catch the scarfs without losing his hat. For the purpose of this article the triangular scarf belongs to Dina and the square scarf belongs to Cherie—they are introduced to show you the proper sizes and shapes of scarfs and because their designs are fashionable. A flower print and a geometrical modern print.

Jack: Dummy the Ace; and Mr. Whitehead the 6. Again Dummy returned Diamonds, the 10 spot; Mr. Whitehead played the 7; Declarer the King; Major Herman the 6.

Mrs. Warren then held the thirteen Diamond. She could have led it and have discarded Dummy's losing Jack of Hearts upon it. But she realized that should she do so, she would then have to lead a Club for a finesse which would later have to be followed by a second Club finesse, for which it would be necessary to enter her own hand again. Accordingly, instead of leading the thirteen Diamond, Mrs. Warren might have led the thirteen Diamond and have discarded a Club on it, but such discard at that stage of the game could not have resulted in any disadvantage. On Mrs. Warren's 4 of Clubs Major Herman played the 2; Dummy finessed the 10; Mr. Whitehead played the 6.

Dummy led the Jack of Hearts; Mr. Whitehead played the Queen; Declarer trumped with the 4 of Spades; Maj. Herman played the 5 of Hearts.

Mrs. Warren then led her thirteen Diamond, the 8 spot; Maj. Herman discarded the 7 of Clubs; Dummy the 3 of Clubs; and Mr. Whitehead the 2 of Hearts. Mrs. Warren next led the 5 of Clubs; Declarer played the 4 of Clubs; Major Herman played the 2; Dummy finessed the 10; Mr. Whitehead played the 6.

Dummy led the Jack of Hearts; Mr. Whitehead played the Queen; Declarer trumped with the 4 of Spades; Maj. Herman played the 5 of Hearts.

Maj. Herman, for the last trick, led the Queen of Clubs; Dummy won with the King; Mr. Whitehead discarded the King of Hearts; and Declarer played the 3 of Clubs. Mrs. Warren, as Declarer, took 10 tricks altogether, scoring game, 25 points. The adversary scored 20 honor points for simple honors.

The correct play of this hand was so involved that the majority of players unquestionably would have missed it. Mrs. Warren not only had to conduct the play so as to drive out two adverse Aces, but she also had to provide entries in her own hand to take three finesses, and all of this in a manner that would involve the least risk.

AND FALLING HAIR

Capes, if you've noticed, have at least a slight vogue every Springtime, undoubtedly because they look so attractive when the wind blows. Their fashion this season, though, is much greater than usual and extends to capes on frocks and coats, as well as the separate and individual capes themselves. Ernest seems to be disturbed about something.

Also the scarf that is blowing so far to the right is worth a passing glance because it is a new American Indian print. The coat is doubly chic by having two scarfs. It's cut full from the shoulder, which is the newest coat silhouette, and the fur on its sleeves is pushed up to show a cuff of cloth around the wrist. Think that Ernest won't even notice it.

Jack: Dummy the Ace; and Mr. Whitehead the 6. Again Dummy returned Diamonds, the 10 spot; Mr. Whitehead played the 7; Declarer the King; Major Herman the 6.

Mrs. Warren then held the thirteen Diamond. She could have led it and have discarded Dummy's losing Jack of Hearts upon it. ## GOOD FORM

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman.

NEVER "DRAPE YOURSELF."

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN: I am coming to you for some helpful advice which I assure you I shall appreciate very much.

A says that when a girl and man are walking together on the street the man should hold the girl's arm. B says that the girl should hold the man's arm. Will you please state which is correct, and why?

JENNIE: Neither is correct. That is, unless the girl needs assistance. When a girl and man are walking together on the street they should walk independently, as a lady and gentleman should walk. There is no reason why they should "drape" on each other.

If, however, the girl needs assistance in crossing a crowded street or in crossing an icy pavement the man offers his arm. One of the most impolite things that a man can do is to take a woman's arm.

"THANK-YOU" NOTES.

Dear Mrs. Beckman: I would you kindly give me some advice as to what would be a proper answer to write as a thanks for greeting cards, such as birthday cards.

2. What would be a proper answer to a compliment? M. H.

The answer to a greeting card would, of course, depend upon the degree of your friendship for the sender, but there are several phrases which are so universal in their registry of appreciation and gratitude that a note of thank you would probably contain one or more of these phrases. Such a phrase as "It was most kind of you" or "How extremely kind of you to think of me on my birthday" or "It was thoroughly characteristic of you to include me in your Christmas thoughts, and I was so happy to have your card of greeting." "Kind," "thoughtful," "friendly," "gracious"—these words are the best to keep in mind, for they are, of course, what we want to say. So your note might, to the sender, read something like this:

Dearest Mary: You were most kind to think of me on my birthday, and I cannot tell you how deeply touched I was by your sweet thought. Your beautiful card, when it arrived in the morning of "the day," saved the day a wordless start and made it happy all the hours that followed. Thank you a million times for this beauty that you gave me—I love you for it.

3. When some one says something pleasant to us, we should be at all self-conscious or embarrassed, but should say our direct thanks in as articulate and graceful a manner that we can. First there must be a "Thank you" and then we should add at least one more statement, for instance, "It is most kind of you to say so" or "How very kind of you to tell me" or "I am so delighted that you like it" or "Now I know it is nice, if you like it, for you have such good taste in clothes" and "That is a high praise indeed—and it makes me so happy that you approve of my taste that I will make you my friend."

May I see you soon—and tell you all my thanks. All the family sends love—and so do I.

Devotedly yours, MARION.

Following the straight and narrow, the newest sports belts are only between three-quarters and an inch and a half wide. Antelope leather is by far the most fashionable, leading colors being jade green, bright blue, Chinese red, beige, light gray and black. One of the latest decorative notes is struck by using appliques of contrasting shades.

Somber for spring are the black kid gloves that are quite the vogue for the coming season. The more tailored ones have fine stitching in geometric designs; on the backs and cuffs this threadwork is in gray or beige color.

Cork floats new fashion in hat ornaments. Elaborate motifs, made of the thinnest kind of cork, are mounted upon gold or silver kid and used as a novelty to offer relief from the monotony of the jeweled pins, that have been so overdone in millinery trimming styles.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

WHAT HAPPENED ON A WARM DAY

—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

AT last little Mrs. Whitefoot had rebuilt the nest in Farmer Brown's beehive to suit her. Whitefoot couldn't see that it was one bit better than the nest he had built there. No, sir, he couldn't see that that nest was one bit better. In fact, he couldn't see that it was any different. "Well," thought he, "if she is satisfied I ought to be. But it's the last time I'll ever undertake to do anything for her. Somehow or other, I never can do it right."

That beeheive certainly was a very comfortable place in which to live. Mrs. Whitefoot had to admit that it was all that Whitefoot had promised her it would be. It was the warmest winter home she had ever enjoyed. Every day there was fresh meat, in the form of dead bees which had dropped from their swarm up above, right on their doorstep, so to speak. There were no enemies to be afraid of. Always, wherever they had lived, there had been the fear that some day Shadow the Weasel might make them a visit. But here they did not fear Shadow. Yes, indeed, it was a very comfortable place to live.

Both Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot knew that they had no business in there. They knew that were those bees awake and active they would not be allowed in there one minute if the bees suspected their presence. But as long as the cold weather lasted there was nothing to fear from the bees. It happened one day that Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were fast asleep in their snug nest, after having been out most of the night. By and by into their dreams there crept a strange noise. At last Whitefoot awoke. The noise was more than a dream. It was a loud humming. At least, it sounded loud in there. Whitefoot poked Mrs. Whitefoot. "Wake up, my dear," he whispered. "We are being visited."

Mrs. Whitefoot awoke with a start. It was needless to tell her already. "What is it?" she asked in a startled whisper.

"Bees," whispered Whitefoot. "What are they doing?" inquired little Mrs. Whitefoot, timidly.

"I don't know, but I know what we're going to do," replied Whitefoot. "What?" inquired Mrs. Whitefoot.

"We are going to remain perfectly quiet right where we are," replied Whitefoot. "We must either do that or make a run for it and stay outside in the cold until those bees become quite angry. I'm tired, so I'm going to stay right here."

"But—suppose those bees find us?" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"They won't," confidently replied Whitefoot. "They don't like the kind of stuff our nest is made of, and they are not likely to try to find a way into it. So, my dear, we are perfectly safe right here. There's nothing to worry about."

"But what makes the bees hum so?" They haven't ever done it before since we came here to live," whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"It must be a warm day," replied Whitefoot. "That must be it. It must be such a warm day that the bees have been awakened. They probably think it is spring. Peep out here, my dear, and see, them."

Three cups sugar, one pint lard and butter mixed, two eggs, five cents' worth of bakers' ammonia, one tablespoon oil of lemon, one pint sweet milk and enough flour to make quite stiff. Roll out and cut into attractive cookie shapes. Bake on cookie tins. Nice for the kiddies.

To keep feet in a good, hardened condition they should never be bathed in hot water—lukewarm is better.

WHAT HAPPENED ON A WARM DAY

—Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

AT last little Mrs. Whitefoot had rebuilt the nest in Farmer Brown's beehive to suit her. Whitefoot couldn't see that it was one bit better than the nest he had built there. No, sir, he couldn't see that that nest was one bit better. In fact, he couldn't see that it was any different. "Well," thought he, "if she is satisfied I ought to be. But it's the last time I'll ever undertake to do anything for her. Somehow or other, I never can do it right."

That beeheive certainly was a very comfortable place in which to live. Mrs. Whitefoot had to admit that it was all that Whitefoot had promised her it would be. It was the warmest winter home she had ever enjoyed. Every day there was fresh meat, in the form of dead bees which had dropped from their swarm up above, right on their doorstep, so to speak. There were no enemies to be afraid of. Always, wherever they had lived, there had been the fear that some day Shadow the Weasel might make them a visit. But here they did not fear Shadow. Yes, indeed, it was a very comfortable place to live.

Both Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot knew that they had no business in there. They knew that were those bees awake and active they would not be allowed in there one minute if the bees suspected their presence. But as long as the cold weather lasted there was nothing to fear from the bees. It happened one day that Whitefoot and Mrs. Whitefoot were fast asleep in their snug nest, after having been out most of the night. By and by into their dreams there crept a strange noise. At last Whitefoot awoke. The noise was more than a dream. It was a loud humming. At least, it sounded loud in there. Whitefoot poked Mrs. Whitefoot. "Wake up, my dear," he whispered. "We are being visited."

Mrs. Whitefoot awoke with a start. It was needless to tell her already. "What is it?" she asked in a startled whisper.

"Bees," whispered Whitefoot. "What are they doing?" inquired little Mrs. Whitefoot, timidly.

"I don't know, but I know what we're going to do," replied Whitefoot. "What?" inquired Mrs. Whitefoot.

"We are going to remain perfectly quiet right where we are," replied Whitefoot. "We must either do that or make a run for it and stay outside in the cold until those bees become quite angry. I'm tired, so I'm going to stay right here."

"But—suppose those bees find us?" whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"They won't," confidently replied Whitefoot. "They don't like the kind of stuff our nest is made of, and they are not likely to try to find a way into it. So, my dear, we are perfectly safe right here. There's nothing to worry about."

"But what makes the bees hum so?" They haven't ever done it before since we came here to live," whispered Mrs. Whitefoot.

"It must be a warm day," replied Whitefoot. "That must be it. It must be such a warm day that the bees have been awakened. They probably think it is spring. Peep out here, my dear, and see, them."

Three cups sugar, one pint lard and butter mixed, two eggs, five cents' worth of bakers' ammonia, one tablespoon oil of lemon, one pint sweet milk and enough flour to make quite stiff. Roll out and cut into attractive cookie shapes. Bake on cookie tins. Nice for the kiddies.

To keep feet in a good, hardened condition they should never be bathed in hot water—lukewarm is better.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

By S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR OF THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY TOLD EARLIER.

Margaret Odell is found strangled. Skeel's finger prints are found in the apartment. Van Vance believes Skeel had been hiding in a closet while the stranger did his work. The thing that baffles police is the side door to the alley, which had been bolted on the inside the night before and was found the same way in the morning. Mannt, Dr. Lindquist and Cleaver all lie about their whereabouts the night of the murder. Spotswood, who had called on the girl, had rushed to her door at the sound of a scream, but had been reassured that everything was all right. Then Skeel is found strangled, after promising to tell who murdered the girl. Heath arrests Jessup, believing him the only one able to manipulate the side door; but Vance demonstrates how Skeel could have done it.

CHAPTER XLV.

WHEN Vance finished speaking, there was several minutes of silence. Markham sat deep in his chair, staring into space. Heath, however, was watching Vance with a kind of grudging admiration. The corner-stone in the foundation of his case against Jessup had been knocked out, and the structure he had built was tottering precariously. Markham realized this, and the fact played havoc with his hopes.

"I wish your inspirations were more helpful," he grumbled, turning his gaze upon Vance. "This latest revelation of yours puts us back almost to where we started from."

"I don't believe in them," he said. "I face the future with a bright eye. . . . Want to hear my theory?—It's fairly bulging with possibilities."

He arranged himself comfortably in his chair. "Skeel needed money—no doubt his silk shirts were running low—and after his unsuccessful attempt to extort it from the lady a week before her demise, he came here last Monday night."

"He had learned she would be out, and he intended to wait for her, for she had probably refused to receive him in the customary social way. He knew the side door was bolted at night, and, as he didn't want to be seen entering the apartment, he devised the little scheme of unbolting the door for himself under cover of a futile call at half-past nine."

"The unbolting accomplished, he returned via the alleyway, and let himself into the apartment at some time before eleven. When the lady returned with an escort, he quickly hid in the clothes closet, and remained there until the escort had departed. Then he came forth, and the lady, startled by his sudden appearance, screamed."

"But, on recognizing him, she told Spotswood, who was now hammering at the door, that it was all a mistake. So Spotswood ran along and played poker. A final discussion between Skeel and the lady—probably a highly acrimonious tiff—ensued. In the midst of it the telephone rang, and Skeel snatched off the receiver and said the Canary was out."

"The tiff was resumed; but presently another suitor appeared on the scene. When he rang the bell or let himself in with a key, can't say—probably the latter, for the phone operator was unaware of his visit. Skeel hid himself a second time in the closet, and luckily took the precaution of locking himself in. Also, he quite naturally put his eye to the keyhole to see who the second intruder was."

Vance pointed to the closet door. "The keyhole, you will observe, is on a line with the davenport, and as Skeel peered out into the room he saw a sight that froze his blood. The new arrival—in the midst, perhaps, of some endearing sentence—seized the lady by the throat and proceeded to throttle her. . . . Imagine Skeel's emotion, my dear Markham. There he was, crouching in a dark closet, and a few feet from him stood a murderer in the act of strangling a lady!"

"I don't wonder he was petrified and speechless. He saw what he imagined to be a maniacal fury in the stranger's eyes; and the stranger must have been a fairly powerful creature, whereas Skeel was slender and almost undernourished. . . . No, merciful, Skeel wasn't having any. He lay doggo. And I can't say that I blame the brawler, what?"

He made a gesture of interrogation.

"What did the stranger do next? Well, well; we'll probably never know, now that Skeel, the horrified witness, has gone to his Maker. But I rather imagine he got out that black document box, opened it with a key he had taken from the lady's handbag, and extracted a goodly number of incriminating documents."

"Then, I fancy, the fireworks began. The gentleman proceeded to wreck the apartment in order to give the effect of a professional burglar. He tore the lace on the lady's gown and severed the shoulder-strap; snatched her orchid corsage and threw it in her lap; stripped off her rings and bracelet; and tore the pendant from its chain."

"After that he upset the lamp, rifled the escritoire, ransacked the Boule cabinet, broke the mirror, overturned the chair, tore the draperies. . . . And all the time Skeel kept his eye glued to the keyhole with fascinated horror, afraid to move, terrified lest he be discovered and sent to join his erstwhile inamorata, for by now he was no doubt thoroughly convinced that the man outside was a raving lunatic—I can't say that I envy Skeel his predicament. It was ticklish, y' know. Rather!—And the devastation went on. He could hear it even when the operations had passed from out his radius of vision. And he himself was caught like a rat in a trap, with no means of escape. A harrowing situation—my word!"

Vance smoked a moment, and then shifted his position slightly. "Y' know, Markham, I imagine that the worst moment of the night of the murder, Spotswood, who had called on the girl, had rushed to her door at the sound of a scream, but had been reassured that everything was all right. Then Skeel is found strangled, after promising to tell who murdered the girl. ## HELPS FOR MOTHERS

By Emilie Hoffman

TWO little girls were severely depressed and sent to bed as a punishment for a disobedient act. Of course they both exercised their lungs and the mother, with a sigh, remarked: "It just breaks my heart to punish them and I can't bear to hear them crying that way," and she forthwith summoned the culprit to come to her. Then she said: "You won't ever be so naughty again, will you?" Of course, there was a prompt negative reply, then mother kissed them both and said: "Now run off and play nice."

It was quite apparent to the guest that this was just one of frequent similar scenes in that household, so when the mother said, "Now, isn't that awful? What do you think is wrong and why would you suggest?" the guest replied: "You lack firmness and you are not consistent. Yesterday these children did the same thing and you took no notice of it. Today you are tired, your nerves are a bit unstrung, so the children's actions are irritating and you punish them. Then you lack the firmness to carry out punishment. Your children understand this and are not slow to take advantage of you. As they grow older they will not have the right confidence in you and you will lose all control over them. Even now they show you no respect."

A discussion followed, and the mother was convinced of her vacillation, but lightly threw off all responsibility by saying, "I know it, but I can't help it." She does not realize the hard road she is paving for herself and her children. Unfortunately there are many unthinking mothers doing likewise.

With the adolescent years come unheeded remonstrances, worry and tears.

Obedience wisely exacted is very important in character building. The understanding mother fully realizes this, and in her home obedience is not a hard task but just a natural habit, because the children have been taught that parental commands are not "boss" rules. They know mother is not forcing her personal wishes upon them but she is training them to conform to laws, as we all must do.

This mother makes obedience easy for her children. She began in infancy with the idea that a command word giving is worth carrying out. So she was always firm. She gave early lessons in compliance to laws, and the mother's firmness won the child's obedience. This mother studied her children, and discipline was in accordance with the reaction of each child. She did not confuse her children by superfluous demands and she avoided "Don't's." Her commands were few, but they had been carefully considered, and the children realized that when mother gives a command she sees to it that it is obeyed. She did not continually correct her children, but when she did so she made sure the correction was heeded.

She made only reasonable requests, and she always secured the attention of the child before making a request. She never assumed a dominating manner, because she knew this was quite likely to arouse resentment and defeat her purpose.

As a result of her consistent firmness this mother has the respect of her children, and this is the keynote of her success. Her children have not lost in self-expression by being obedient, because the children have always had full confidence in mother, and obedience based on confidence and respect is the right sort and the kind that counts for much throughout life.

Pen Women Are to Have a Pow-wow

WOMEN writers, authors, poets, artists and musicians from 45 states will gather in Washington April 11 for the biennial convention of the National League of American Pen Women.

Plans for topics of discussion are being made by Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, president of the Pen Women.

One of the requirements for membership in the Pen Women," said Mrs. Seton, "is professional."

"And, of course, as all professional writers know, no matter how successful they are, there are many problems that arise. We want to help solve these."

The national organization offers six $100 prizes every year for the best accomplishments among its members. The best novel of the year, by a member, the best short story, the best drama, the best poem, the best musical composition and the best piece of creative art work are selected by a special board of judges.

A feature of the convention this year will be the Author's breakfast at which nationally and internationally famous writers will speak. This will be held April 14.

Too Hard.

If the toothbrush you have purchased is too hard for your gums and causes them to bleed, soak it in hot vinegar for a half hour. Then wash in clear, cold water and a great deal of the stiffness will have disappeared.

usually are removed by any of the means which eradicate ink, but all of these are not adapted to the work. It is better to use the garment to a profes-is a reasonable prospect of remov-any chance of its being removed.

There are many good preparapound of almond paste, whites of three eggs, three-eighths pound of powdered sugar. Worth together almond paste and sugar on a smooth board or marble slab. Then add whites of eggs gradually, and work until mixture is perfectly smooth. Confectioners at first use the hand, afterwards a palette knife, which is not only of use for mixing, but for keeping board clean. Shape, using a pastry bag and tube, on a tin sheet covered with buttered paper, one-half inch apart; or drop mixture from tip of spoon in small piles. Macaroon mixture is stiff enough to hold its shape, but in baking spreads. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a slow oven.

If liked soft, they should be slightly baked. After removing from oven, invert paper, and wet with a cloth wrung out of cold water, when macaroons will easily slip off. For almond macaroons, before baking, sprinkle macaroons with almonds blanched and shred-ed, or chopped.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

WESTMINSTER—The symptom under the circumstances mentioned is sometimes due to a magnifying (cancerous) and it is of first importance to have this point settled by a thorough examination, which will be made free of charge
at the Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital. If you wish the name of a private physician, send stamped, addressed envelope.

ACHY—You are doubtless suffering from a neuritis (inflammation) of the nerves of the section mentioned. It is best relieved by heat application of heat, moist and dry, by electrical stimulation and wet water baths systematically applied. Best results can be had by going to Barnes Hospital, or other hospital which has all the necessary appliances for this treatment. It does not necessarily require remaining in the hospital.

TRUTH—The narrow pelvis was inherited, in your case, and not due to accident, unless some of the bones forming the pelvis were broken and misplaced in healing. The enlargements mentioned were the probable swollen glands. The pain may be due to some displacements of the pelvic organs, which should be determined by examination by the attending physician, aided by the X ray and other exploratory devices.

M. J.—Frost bite or chilblain is a form of inflammation of the skin and deeper tissues, produced by exposure to cold, and having the symptoms of inflammation, that is, pain, redness and swelling.
In the early stages it requires friction of the parts with warm towels soaked in ice water, the surrounding temperature being gradually raised. When congestion has disappeared and the parts become warmer, cotton wool should be applied. This condition sometimes results in gangrene, death of the frozen parts, in which case the services of a surgeon become necessary.

AT THE BEAUTY SHOP

THE PROBLEM OF DRY HAIR.

OUR present mode of close-fitting coiffures is a bit hard on the girl with dry hair. Quite apart from the health aspect of the problem, it must be considerable of a strain on the poise to carry a stiff, flyaway crop of hair into a room full—worse, a whole theater full—of sleek, sophisticated heads.
Of course, if one has great courage, or great individuality, which amounts to pretty much the same thing, then there is no problem.
We should like to say more—in fact, a whole article full—on this subject of individuality, now that we've introduced it here, but there is such a thing as keeping faith with the title you start off with—some other time.

Besides, it is high time somebody informed the dry-haired clan that though their problem is a much more disagreeable one than that of the city-haired, it is every bit as serious as the latter and, if neglected, can afford almost tragically the quantity as well as the quality of the future crop of hair.

To begin with, dryness of the hair is of the skin—and the two are usually to be found together—is an extreme condition and therefore unhealthy. And the roots of this unhealthiness are to be found not in the scalp, nor in the hair roots, but directly in the blood, whence most of our ills, as well as our beauty.

Haven't it often occurred to you to inquire why nearly all the people from southern Europe have highly polished hair—and unfortunately for their beauty—highly polished skins to match? It doesn't take a detective to establish a very significant connection between their excessive consumption of olive oil and the characteristic finish to their hair and skins—does it?

Diet, then, has to play an important part in the correction of the "dry-hair" problem. Obviously, the need here is for more of the fatty foods, especially more butter and a generous percentage of olive oil. For those who do not find the more palatable alone, it is suggested that the olive oil be included in salads containing more tempting ingredients. And for those who prefer to multiply and glorify their daily grind of strenuous exercise, the fat is not needed for the hair.

And now for the local end of the problem. Granted the blood does contain the proper elements in sufficient quantities to bring vitality and loveliness to the hair, how can it reach the hair roots? Deep, regular massage is the answer to that.
